Third Straight Tax Decrease

$21.6 Million County Budget Passes

KINGSTON

Ulster County's $ 21.6 million budget for 1971 was approved unanimously by the Ulster County Legislature Thursday night, and chairman of the board, Peter J. Savago, (R-Dist. 8) announced the equalization rates and the county charges to the towns, all of which meant good needs for most county taxpayers.

The budget, up $2 million over last year but down in the amount of dollars to be raised by tax levy, means decreased taxes for the third year in a row.

Minority Leader Roger Mabie (D-Dist. 7) praised Savago and the budget officer, Edward Snyder for "an efficient and fine job."

Legislator Melvin Mones expressed disappointment over the fact that the budget contained no appropriation for a Consumer Frauds Bureau, an agency which Mones has suggested be created in Ulster County.

"The people need protection now and they need it on a local level," he said, adding that he would pursue the subject further with the district attorney-elect, Francis J. Vogt.

Addressing the Legislature, Savago compared the final tax levy figures of the present with the past, pointing out that they are county charges and that when town tax bills are figured, they will probably be higher. Nevertheless, he pointed out that all the levys for all the towns and the City of Kingston are down from 1970 with the exception of Rochester and Rosendale.

The county charge for the city of Kingston dropped from 23.175 in 1970 to 22.308 for 1971.

Equalization rates were set as follows and were adopted through a resolution submitted by Louis Bevier (R-Dist. 8): Denning, 9; Esopus, 18; Gardiner, 15; Hardenburgh, 24; Hurley, 20; Town of Kingston, 18; Lloyd, 18; Marbletown, 22; Marlboro, 17; New Paltz, 13; Olive, 13; Plattekill, 55; Rochester, 24; Rosendale, 12; Saugerties, 14; Shandaken, 28; Shawangunk, 22; Ulster, 14; Wawarsing, 16; Woodstock, 69 and the City of Kingston, 35.

In other business the Legislature took a roll call vote fixing salaries of the County Judge, Surrogate and Family Court Judge at $30,000 each. A $5,000 increase for each of the three posts.

All legislators present voted in favor of the measure, except Brian White (R-Dist. 9) and Glenn A. Debrosky (R-Dist. 7) who voted against it with no comments. Two legislators, William Davis (D-City) and Bevier were absent.

The Legislature did give approval to a resolution creating a job title for the Juvenile Aid Program, to be newly initiated in Ulster County. Legislator Clifford Snyder (R-Dist. 1) chairman of the Sheriff's Committee submitted a resolution stating that effective Jan. 1 a new title of "Juvenile Aid, Investigator" be placed on the salary schedule, Grade 14, with a starting salary of $7,582 a year.

The board also agreed to go on record as being in favor of a contract between the State Department of Social Services and the National Association of Crime and Delinquency for a survey which it hopes wil provide for the eventual construction and staffing of a regional secure juvenile detention facility.

The Legislature is forwarding its suggestion to state authorities and local state representatives.

The Powdermill Bridge which spans the Sawkill River, in the Town of Kingston, came in for praise by Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye (R-Dist. 2) who thanked the Legislature "for providing it." A transfer of funds was necessary before the Legislature formally accepted the bridge on recommendation of the Bridge and Highway Committee, Legislator Lawrence Craft (R-Dist. 10) chairman.

Other resolutions to come before the board were routine.

Savago announced a drug seminar, Dec. 16 at the County Center in White Plains beginning at 10 a.m. and inquired concerning legislators interested in attending.

The meeting concluded with a presentation by County Planing Director Herbert Hekler, Environmental Sanitary Engineer Harry Edinger and Civil Engineer, Christus Larios, who presented the Comprehensive Water Supply Study for Ulster County, a project that has been close to four years in the making.

Larios outlined the study, details of which can be found in today's Freeman.

Among those who took part in opening ceremonies were: left, Elmore Yallum, chairman of Urban Renewal Agency; Mayor Francis R. Koenig; Alderman Florence Ludlow (D-4th Ward) and Stanley London, president of the Uptown Businessmen's Association who hailed the structure as a boon to the uptown section of Kingston. County Gets Report On Our Water Supply

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

The New York City, Catskill and Delaware Aqueducts which run through Ulster County, carrying an abundant supply of water, are thought to be the best suited for ultimately providing a much needed source of water for the county, according to the Comprehensive Water Supply Study presented the Ulster County Legislature Thursday night by Christus Larios of the engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios.

The 501-page study, which has been three years in the making, also suggests that the Woodstock - West Hurley area be served by Cooper Lake, now used by the City of Kingston for its water supply.

The Legislature, recognizing that all available supplies of water in Ulster County will be utilized, with the demand outrunning the supply within the next ten years, requested the $82,950 study, which was entirely financed by the state, in order that all future projects pertaining to water supply, conform in general with the proposals outlined in the study.

Harry Edinger, director of environmental sanitation, Ulster County Department of Health, lauded Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature and the Legislature itself for having had the foresight to request not only the water study but the state-funded sewer and solid waste disposal studies which have also been completed and are ready for presentation. Edinger and Herbert Hekler, director of the Planning Board, said that Ulster is the only county in the state to have all three studies.

"We're in good shape," Hekler commented, adding that upon approval by the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation and adoption by the Ulster Planning Board, the water supply proposals made in the study will become the water supply master plan for the county.

The study, carried on by Brinnier and Larios, points out that the demands for water in Ulster County will triple during the next 50 years and that none of the ground water supplies in Ulster County offers a permanent solution for inter-municipal water supply usage.

Investigations were conducted to determine the feasibility of creating new storage reservoirs within the county but the high cost of constructing the reservoirs and treatment facilities makes the projects prohibitive for Ulster County to finance alone.

Consideration was also given tapping the Hudson River, which is, at the present time, being used as a source of water supply by the hamlets of Port Ewen and Highland. Because of the large quantities of water available in the Hudson and its proximity to populous areas, this source of supply was examined closely when searching for sources of water for communities along the eastern bounds of the county.

Except for the hamlets of Port Ewen and Highland, the Village of New Paltz which takes water from the Catskill Aqueduct and the City of Kingston which is supplied by Cooper Lake, all other sources of supply are inadequate to accommodate future water demands.

Even the City of Kingston, which now has more water than it needs, may, in the future have need for a reserve water supply if the Woodstock area takes from Cooper Lake, to which it is entitled under a 1929 ruling and, if IBM, which gets its water from the City of Kingston ups its present consumption from 400,000 gallons a day to the one million gallons per day it is entitled to under a previous agreement.

New Uptown Parking Garage Open for Business

KINGSTON

Kingston's only free parking structure opened for business this morning at 9 a.m. at the corner of North Front and Fair Streets.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig presided over ribbon cutting ceremonies at the 360-car parking structure, built at a cost of $700,000 by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency.

The eventual cost of parking has not yet been established, the mayor said today. There will be no charge for parking during the month of December. The Common Council will set rates, the mayor said, possibly at its January or February meeting. Koenig held out the possibility of the establishment of a city-wide parking authority but said that lengthy studies lie ahead before anything definite on that can be promulgated.

The parking structure is not yet fully completed, and as such, certain restrictions are in effect. Koenig said that cars with spiked snow tires would not be allowed in the structure during December but would be allowed to park in the blacktopped area behind the garage along Plaza Road.

Speaking of the city's newest addition, Koenig said, "The end result of constructing the garage, which was a joint City-Urban Renewal Agency effort, will prove to be a major contribution towards this administration's goal to strengthen the real estate and sales tax base in this section of our commercial retail center. As a result of this effort, not only did we provide a modern place for off-street parking, but the badly needed new real estate and sales tax revenue to meet the ever increasing costs of providing public services can be forthcoming," he continued.

"The parking garage will also help to serve as the 'connector' between the older Wall - North Front Street area and the newer Kingston Plaza Shopping Center which will have a 'pulling-together' effect rather than one that suggests divisiveness. It will also bring the necessary new business to Kingston so that the all important tax base can be strengthened," the mayor predicted.

The city's chief executive made a special effort to point out that there will be no change from the existing direction of traffic flow on the streets leading to the parking structure. After a trial period, he noted, adjustments may have to be made to improve "traffic flow efficiency" by the Common Council's Traffic Committee, but in the meantime, a traffic officer may be needed at peak times to direct traffic.

The parking garage will be open to coincide with the retail shopping hours. It is well lighted and easy to drive through. The garage has two entrances and exits: at North Front Street and New Clinton Avenue (formerly Plaza Road). Koenig noted, in concluding his announcement, that the part of the structure containing the pedestrian elevator, lavatories and waiting room is not ready for use, but full use of the parking area is available.

Sewage Problems... On Camera

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Kingston hopes to shed some light on its sewage problems with the aid of a new subterranean photography system demonstrated this week by its manufacturer's representative.

Russell Kearney, a representative for Seminole Pollution Control Inc., a Rochester-based firm, demonstrated the sewer-searching device consisting of a 35mm camera with strobe lights to the Board of Public Works commissioners, Mayor Francis R. Koenig and eight aldermen before the regularly scheduled meeting of the BPW Board at its offices on East O'Reilly Street.

The device can be lowered into a sewer and set to take pictures at various intervals, usually four feet. Using the color photographs, sewer crews can plot stoppages and breakages accurately and descend for repairs.

Charles J. Cole, superintendent of the Board of Public Works, seemed impressed by the demonstration. "I'm going to recommend it for next year's budget," he told The Freeman. The initial cost, including the equipment and film, according to Cole, will run the city about $3,000. "We'll get that back in saved man hours within a year," he says.

Joining the mayor, Cole and the BPW Board at the demonstration were Alderman John Heitzman (D-First Ward), John Machione (R-Second Ward), Brian Smith (R-Third Ward), John Finch (D-Fifth Ward), Edmond Roux (R-Ninth Ward), Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward), Edward Norton (D-11th Ward) and Peter Mancuso (D-12th Ward).

The device, according to Cole, is encased in a barrel which contains the self-advancing camera and lights. The device takes the picture and then advances the pre-determined number of feet. There's another device on top of the ground which tells the operator if the camera is advancing and taking pictures. If it doesn't they haul out the camera, process the film and take a look.

Cole said that training of city workers would be minimal. "It's basically a question of photo interpretation. The pictures are amazingly clear. We just have to be sure what we're looking at."

"It's a vast improvement over the blind groping method we have now," Cole said. "We can also use it for surveying our sewer systems. It will shoot up to 300 feet of sewer on one roll of film and you have a permanent record."

That permanent record could be a factor in the mayor's plans for an overall sewer overhaul.

Koenig has been unable to begin the program due to an apparent lack of federal and/or state funds.

The cost to the city for sewage maintenance and construction in 1970 was just over $105,000 with $60,500 going to maintenance alone. The $44,600 sewage construction allocation was something new in last year's budget and is expected to be increased for next year.

Cole sees pictorial documentation as a possible selling point with state and federal officials when the city gets to the point of formal requests. "We can show them exactly what shape our sewers are in," he said.

Diplomat's Release Ends Canadian Kidnap Crisis

MONTREAL (UPI) —British Trade Commissioner James L. Cross, who spent 60 days as a hostage of the terrorist French separatists and one more in the custody of the Cuban government on a windswept island in the St. Lawrence River, was freed early today. He said he would go home to England.

Halfway around the world, his wife toasted his sudden and unexpected freedom by drinking a bottle of champagne. "It is the greatest Christmas gift I could have hoped for," she said.

"I am very happy to come back to the world," Cross said simply. "There were times in the past eight weeks when I had almost given up hope."

Cross was released by the Cuban consul about 2:30 a.m. EST, after a plane with three of his Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ) kidnapers and four members of their families landed at Havana airport, where the Cuban government gave them exile. Canada said they could never come home.

Cross, 49, was taken to Jewish General Hospital by car 90 minutes after the plane touched down. Police said he apparently had not been getting the pills he needed for his heart condition while he was captive, but that he did not appear the worse for it.

Dr. J. L. Brandt, the hospital's chief physician, later reported Cross had lost 22 pounds and was suffering from "minor vitamin deficiencies" which would be "easily correctible." Cross had a diet of starch with no meat or fish during his two months of captivity, the doctor said. Otherwise, he added, Cross was in "excellent condition in all respects."

Given up for dead by many who had watched closely the drama of his abduction and the FLQ's almost unceasing communiques listing demands that must be met for his freedom, Cross was kept the 60 days in darkened rooms and never saw the sunlight.

He told his wife in a transatlantic telephone call to Berne, Switzerland, that he had watched "about 162 French films on television" during his captivity. While waiting for his official release from the Cuban consul, he did more of the same, watching French movies on a television set the consul provided.

Canadians rejoiced in his release. Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau called the kidnaping "a nightmare that has passed into history."

The release of Cross marked the beginning of the end of the "kidnap crisis," the most serious peacetime situation Canada has ever faced.

Authorities vowed unceasing efforts to wrap it up with the arrest of the three fugitives named as suspects in the other FLQ terror strike, the kidnaping and murder of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte, which followed the Oct. 5 kidnaping of Cross by six days.

Under the terms of the gunpoint bargain struck between the government and the kidnapers, Cross was placed in the custody of the acting Cuban consul, Ricardo Escardin, in a pavilion on St. Helen's Island, the site of Expo '67. The pavilion was declared temporarily Cuban territory six weeks ago for just such an occasion.

The end of the drama began Thursday when police staked out the house where the kidnapers were holding Cross. Choquette told newsmen later the house had been under surveillance for about two weeks, but it was only Wednesday when police learned that Cross was held there. He did not elaborate how.

The government sent a lawyer into the house to bargain for the life of Cross. With him went a lawyer who has defended FLQ terrorists in court.

The negotiations ended with the kidnapers driving Cross, themselves to the waiting Cuban consul on St. Helen's Island.

Cross was loaded into the back seat of a battered black Chrysler, with newspapers taped on the windows to prevent a good view of him.

Fleckenstein Is Target

Criticism for Wawarsing Highway Superintendent

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

ELLENVILLE — Town of Wawarsing Superintendent of Highways, Karl Fleckenstein was the target of both public and official criticism at the regular meeting of the Wawarsing Town Board here, Thursday night.

Fleckenstein was attacked for failing to make promised road improvements by a small angry group of residents and also criticized by members of the board who cited his "lack of cooperation" with them.

Fleckenstein, who passively endured the verbal crossfire, admitted that he has not been able to tend to many problem spots on the town's 180 miles of roads, and attributed this difficulty to shortages of equipment and personnel.

Not satisfied with the Highway Superintendent's response, the residents then turned to the Town Board to seek redress of their grievances.

However, their efforts were once again frustrated because as Supervisor Frank Harkin explained, "the activities of the Highway Department were beyond the authority of the Town Board."

"We can only control their budgetary allotment," Harkin said, "but if we cut off their funds then nothing will get done."

Harkin said that the Board's authority over the Highway Department was further diminished by a "lack of cooperation" between the superintendent of highways and the Town Board.

He went on to say that the Town Board could take on a much more active role in the area if the post were appointive and recommended that a referendum on the question be conducted in the township. Presently the superintendent of highways is popularly elected and is not directly responsible to the Town Board.

Town Engineer Aaron Horowitz concurred with Harkin's contention that the highway post should be appointive rather than elective, but did not characterize this change as the total solution to the problem.

"Highway complaints are always made and there are just too many miles of road to too few employes to do the job," Horowitz said. "The entire department should be revamped."

In other business at the Thursday night meeting the Town Board tabled a request by Louis Grimaldi, chairman of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, to provide financial assistance to the Wawarsing Neighborhood Service Center, which was recently instructed by the board to abandon its office in the Town Building.

In his letter Grimaldi stated that the CAC did "not have funds available to meet the cost" of renting new office space and appealed to the board to honor its previously stated consideration to assist the service center "in off-setting any serious budget deficiency" caused by their anticipated need to relocate.

The Town Board also received "with regret" the resignations of two town officials.

In a letter to the board, Vernon Kelder, chairman of the Town Board of Assessors, stated his intention to step down from his post as of December 31, and in another correspondence Mark Levitas, chairman of the Wawarsing Narcotics Guidance Council submitted his resignation.

The Board also announced that the Rev. Ernest Miller was appointed as the new chairman of the Narcotics Guidance Council and that Louis Aponte of Ellenville was named to fill the vacancy on the council.

AFTER THE SENTENCE — Eight persons were sentenced to from one year to 18 months in federal prison Thursday for the destruction of draft files last September in the federal building in Rochester. Rochester Convictions . . . Two Will Appeal

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — The lawyer for one of eight antiwar activists sentenced to prison for ransacking federal offices here says he expects that only his client and one other defendant will file appeals.

Herman J. Walz Jr. commented Thursday night, several hours after Judge Harold P. Burke of U. S. District Court sentenced the eight to terms ranging from 12 to 18 months.

He said he thought his client, Joseph T. Gilchrist, 22, of Itaca; and John T. Glick, 20, of Philadelphia, would file notices of appeal within the 10 days alotted them. Both drew 18-month terms.

"I suspect the other six will sign waivers of appeal," Walz told a reporter.

Two of the six, Suzanne Williams, 21, of Rochester, and DeCourcy Squire, 21, Morgantown, W. Va., have been in jail since the Sept. 6 incident.

Burke said the time would be credited to their 15-month sentences and they would be eligible for parole consideration next Feb. 6 after serving one-third of their terms.

Fifteen-month sentences also were imposed on Joan Nicholson, 36, Philadelphia, and Wayne Bonekemper, 20, Rochester. Twelve-month terms went to Martha J. Meyerding, 22, and Frank Callahan, 21, both of Philadelphia.

Thursday night, 75 persons held a rain-dampened candlelight vigil outside the Monroe County jail to lend what they called "moral support" to the defendants, who are being lodged there temporarily before transfer to federal prisons.

One participant, Ralph Bertolucci of New York City, said, the gathering hoped "to direct as much attention as possible to the dehumanizing and degrading conditions in prison."

Another young man burned what he said was his draft card.

McGivern-Culhane Case

Retrial Date Given by Mino

KINGSTON — Ulster County Judge Raymond J. Mino said Thursday that the second trial of two men accused of a 1968 murder of a deputy sheriff on the State Thruway near Plattekill, has been set for Tuesday, Jan. 5, 1971. The judge noted that he had not received an official ruling by the Appellate Division of Supreme Court in Albany on a motion for change of venue.

The higher court rejected the defense plea unanimously on Nov. 25, according to the Associated Press in Albany, who reported that the Appellate Court said the accused Gerald McGivern and Charles Culhane, would have to be tried in Ulster County Court.

Attorneys for the defendants had applied for a change of venue claiming their clients could not get a fair trial in Ulster County because of unfavorable pre-trial publicity.

Culhane and McGivern are accused of the shooting death of William Fitzgerald, 62, of Westchester County, during an alleged escape attempt while the defendants and a third inmate were being transported from Bowerman, Auburn Prison to White Plains to testify in another case.

The third inmate, Robert [illegible], also was shot to death during the incident which occurred on the superhighway on Sept. 13, 1968.

The first trial of the two defendants ended last June in a mistrial after a jury reported it could not agree on a verdict.

Construction Will Start Soon On Rhinebeck Medical Building

Construction on a new Rhinebeck medical building will begin in "a week or two," according to Dr. George Verrilli.

A recent hearing by the Village of Rhinebeck allowed the proposed site for the privately owned office building to be changed from Springbrook Avenue (Route 9 north) to Montgomery Street directly opposite the entrance to Astor Drive.

The building will house offices for eight doctors, with additions possible in the future. It will have two stories, with one underground, and will include parking facilities. The location is adjacent to Northern Dutchess Hospital property.

The reason for the change of location was the necessity for a larger building than originally anticipated and the architect's changes in design.

The buliding was unanimously approved with favorable comments from members of the Board of Appeals.

New Fire Chief At Centerville

CENTERVILLE — Warren Benz of Fish Creek, a member of Centerville Fire Company, was elected district chief Thursday night on the fifth ballot at the election meeting of Centerville Hall.

Benz succeeds Thomas Brennan, who served the past two years and was elected to the Board of Fire Commissioners Tuesday night. Benz defeated Granville Scotty Myer in the final ballot. Others in the running for chief in earlier ballots included Robert Vertetus of the Cedar Grove Company; John C. Paige, a former chief, and Alvin Whitaker.

Vertetus was named deputy fire chief over Myer on the second ballot for that post.

School Board Turns Down Seat Belts, Two-Way Radios

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

A comprehensive report of a study by a special committee of the Board of Education that decided against installation of seat belts and two-way radios on buses operating in the Kingston School District, was unanimously approved at Thursday night's Board meeting.

The committee chaired by Peter Hoffman also ruled out proposals for the hiring of monitors for school buses and contracting for additional vehicles to eliminate standees because of the excessive costs.

The committee agreed with the recommendation in the transportation handbook recommended by the Commissioner of Education regulating speed limits for school buses.

In other business last night the Board adopted a Code of Ethics mandated by the state for members of the board, officers and employes in the school district.

The report on schol bus safety was compiled by a committee apointed in August by Thomas Reynolds, board president, following numerous requests and a petition signed by more than 100 taxpayers urging stricter bus safety measures.

It was noted in the report that the State Education Department has cited the Kingston School District in both 1968-69 and 1969-70 for transporting all of its students without a personal injury accident. The committee commended James E. Tobin, assistant superintendent of transportation, and his staff, bus contractors and drivers for the unblemished two-year record.

The report was compiled following conferences with national, state and other departments, and State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr.

Regarding seat belts, it was noted that the cost for installation would run in excess of $60,000, and that seat belts would necessitate the addition of 10 bus units at the secondary level to accommodate students who are now standing. This would mean an additional cost of $60,000, and these buses would be operating below capacity, the report noted.

The estimated cost to install two-way radios in 117 vehicles would be approximately $164,000, the committee estimated. The cost would include a service contract, insurance and installation.

The estimated cost of hiring 87 monitors for the buses would be $157,842, and it would be necessary to hire one or two supervisors to oversee the work of the monitors. The entire cost would have to be borne by the taxpayers since there is no state aid available for school bus monitors, the report noted.

The roport was compiled by the committee headed by Hoffman and included Milton L. Reynolds, Harold Keator, Bevier Sleight and Mrs. Marianne Darrow. Cooperating were the board president, Superintendent Louis A. Salzmann, James Tobin and Dr. J. Warren Adair.

The Code of Ethics adopted prohibits conflicts of interest, the disclosure of confidential information and the acceptance of employment which would impair independence and judgment in the exercise of official duties of any official or employe in the school district.

Prior to the business meeting last night, Harry M. Thayer made emotional remarks complaining about vandalism at the Governor Clinton tomb and benches on property of the Old Dutch Church, and an incident at a recent high school basketball game where several persons refused to stand during the playing of the National Anthem.

The board, through its president, assured Thayer that the matter already is under investigation and steps will be taken to avert any future similar incident.

Coed Dormitory Sought at Bard

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON

The Senate Judicial Board of the Bard College Student Senate has asked that the administration implement coeducational dormitory facilities.

According to an article in the Bard Observer, this board was "consulted by the Dean's office regarding the possibilities of changing the present housing policy."

The Judicial Board made recommendations to the Dean's office and the Student Senate as a result of a student "protesting bureaucratic hassles issuring from her individually initiated room exchange across sex lines."

A substantial number of the students live in other dormitories than that inhabited by their sex already, and there are no guidelines prohibiting any kind of visitation.

The Judicial Board was quoted as feeling that the college should adopt an unqualified policy of coeducational housing.

It suggested that no forced room changes should be made from those now existing, and asked that the program be instituted quickly.

Charges Dismissed Against City Pair

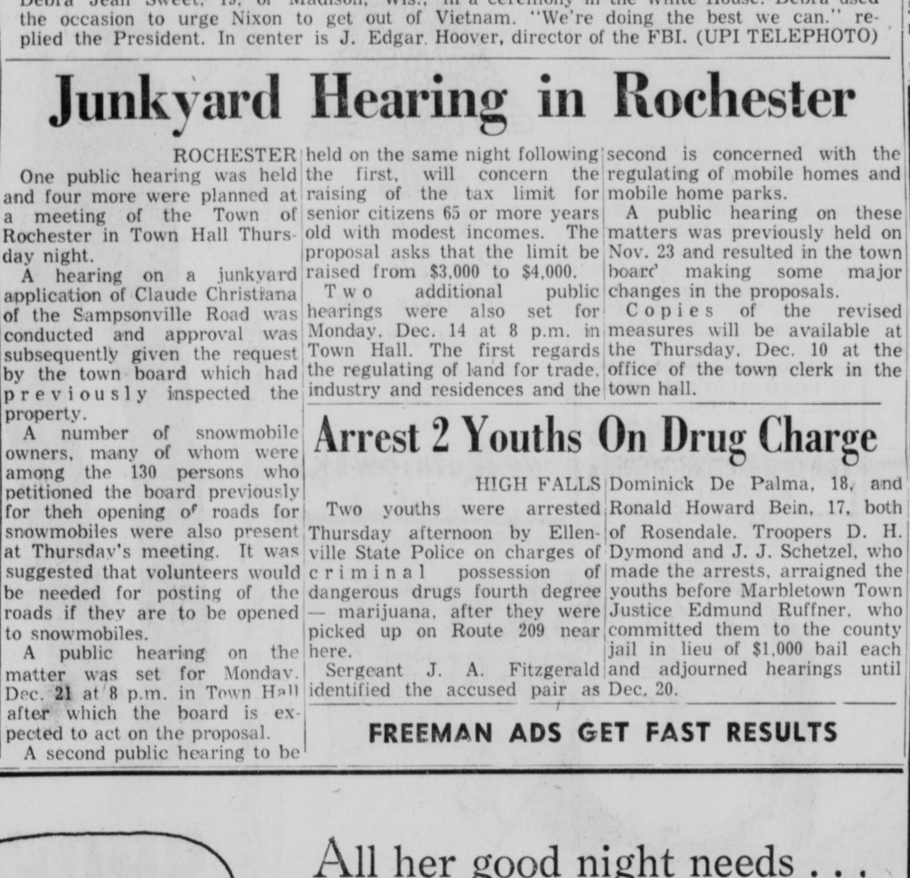

KINGSTON

Charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs and an instrument adapted for administering narcotics, were dismissed Thursday and 18-year-old Anthony Johnson of 32 Liberty Street, was discharged by Special City Judge George A. Beck.

Johnson's attorney, Francis Martocci contended that there was no basis for the arrest and defense motion to suppress any evidence was granted with consent of the district attorney's office. The youth was among 14 persons arrested during the police raid on Oct. 29.

Similar charges against Cheryl Adickes, 17, of 118 Esopus Avenue, who police had accused of criminal possession of dangerous drugs and instruments as the result of another investigation, also had her case dismissed. The action was taken by Judge Beck after another defendant, Dennis Showers, 19, of 18 Oak Street, admitted the marijuana and implement belonged to him, according to police reports.

Showers, who was arrested during the October raid, is charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs—marijuana—and an implement. His case was put over yesterday until Dec. 10.

Junkyard Hearing in Rochester

ROCHESTER

One public hearing was held and four more were planned at a meeting of the Town of Rochester in Town Hall Thursday night.

A hearing on a junkyard application of Claude Christiana of the Sampsonville Road was conducted and approval was subsequently given the request by the town board which had previously inspected the property.

A number of snowmobile owners, many of whom were among the 130 persons who petitioned the board previously for theh opening of roads for snowmobiles were also present at Thursday's meeting. It was suggested that volunteers would be needed for posting of the roads if they are to be opened to snowmobiles.

A public hearing on the matter was set for Monday, Dec. 21 at 8 p.m. in Town Hall after which the board is expected to act on the proposal.

A second public hearing to be held on the same night following the first, will concern the raising of the tax limit for senior citizens 65 or more years old with modest incomes. The proposal asks that the limit be raised from $3,000 to $4,000.

Two additional public hearings were also set for Monday, Dec. 14 at 8 p.m. in Town Hall. The first regards the regulating of land for trade, industry and residences and the second is concerned with the regulating of mobile homes and mobile home parks.

A public hearing on these matters was previously held on Nov. 23 and resulted in the town board making some major changes in the proposals.

Copies of the revised measures will be available at the Thursday, Dec. 10 at the office of the town clerk in the town hall.

Arrest 2 Youths On Drug Charge

HIGH FALLS

Two youths were arrested Thursday afternoon by Ellenville State Police on charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs fourth degree — marijuana, after they were picked up on Route 209 near here.

Sergeant J. A. Fitzgerald identified the accused pair as Dominick De Palma, 18, and Ronald Howard Bein, 17, both of Rosendale. Troopers D. H. Dymond and J. J. Schetzel, who made the arrests, arraigned the youths before Marbletown Town Justice Edmund Ruffner, who committed them to the county jail in lieu of $1,000 bail each and adjourned hearings until Dec. 20.

Explosion Blasts Car After Midtown Crash

KINGSTON

A two-vehicle collision preceded an explosion and fire in a 1961 sedan shortly after 8:50 p.m. Thursday on Cornell Street near the Mid City Lanes.

Central Fire Station was notified by police of the mishap and fire units were dispatched. On arrival firemen found the sedan completely involved and moments later an explosion erupted in the vehicle. Firemen used two 1½-inch booster lines from Engine 1 and one hoseline from Engine 4 to check the flames.

A gravity line was used to complete extinguishment of the fire. Doctor's ambulance was sent to standby, firemen said. Deputy Hugh Greer was in charge of firefighters.

The blaze broke out in a car operated by Leslie J. Shultis Jr., 22, of 3 Cedar Street, after the vehicle was involved in a collision with a mail truck operated by Werner F. Luck, 56, of Hyde Park, police reports noted.

Shultis was cited for unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle. The car is owned by Joan Torden of Avery's Trailer Park, according to fire records.

Another accident reported by police involved a rack body truck operated by Joseph H. Dannely of Cogan Station, Pa. He told authorities he was driving from Maiden Lane into Albany Avenue at about 10 p.m. yesterday when the body of the vehicle hit and knocked down a safety crosswalk pole.

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years!

Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet That Needs No Prescription Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

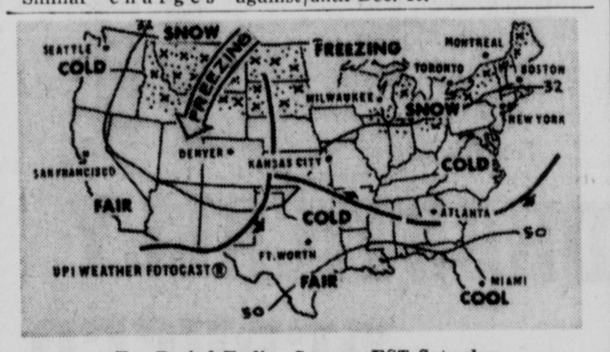

If you're one of the many who get tense, nervous headaches, these latest tests by doctors should be of the greatest importance.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin®. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

Stunning Blow for the Supersonic Transport

FIGHT LEADERS — In a stunning reversal of sentiment, the Senate voted Thursday to halt development of the giant supersonic transport plane (SST) cornerstone of the United States' bid to maintain its superiority in world aviation. Two of the leaders in the fight against the SST, Sens. William Proxmire (D-Wisc.) (L) and Edmund Muskie (D-Me.) meet with reporters after the vote. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

WASHINGTON (AP) — More concerned with the environment than appeals to technological progress, the Senate has dealt a stunning and perhaps fatal setback to the supersonic transport, the plane President Nixon wants as the flagship of the nation's global jet fleet.

Backers of the SST project, trying to rally from the shock of Thursday's 52-41 vote to kill $290 million in federal SST subsidy money, said they would try to salvage at least part of the program in a House-Senate conference.

The victors, savoring the taste of their 11-vote triumph, say there is little chance the Senate or even the House would now approve a conference report containing any of the $290 million appropriation originally earmarked to continue work on two SST prototypes.

It was a personal victory for Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who in two previous tries could muster no more than 23 votes to stop the project he has called an environmental monster, an economic ship of fools, and a flying white elephant.

And it was a personal defeat for the President who had mustered his personal influence and the weight of the executive branch to save a program he called essential to the future of the American aviation industry.

The loss was particularly bitter for two powerful Democratic senators—Warren G. Magnuson and Henry M. Jackson—whose home state of Washington is the headquarters of the economically depressed Boeing aircraft company, prime SST contractor.

The vote drew 18 Republicans and a number of Southern conservatives into the anti-SST camp and most observers found only one basic explanation:

An overriding concern with protecting the environment in an atmosphere in which the SST had become, rightly or wrongly, a symbol of unplanned progress and misplaced national priorities.

The debate that preceded the vote was a catalogue of potential environmental, economic and political criticism.

Scientific fears were aired that the SST's sonic booms would cause avalanches and kill sea birds; that its exhaust in the upper atmosphere would change global weather and cause chemical reactions that could increase the cases of skin cancer on earth; and that its noise at airports would equal 50 subsonic jets, so loud all homes in a 15-mile radius would have to be soundproofed.

Critics such as Proxmire called the government's contract with Boeing and the General Electric Corp., a "sweetheart arrangement" sure to drain billions in tax dollars into the biggest and most costly boondoggle in national history.

On every point, the SST's backers could hardly find new phrases to express their disagreement.

Jackson told the Senate: "I have seen absolutely no evidence that SST operations will adversely affect our environment."

And Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., declared: "It is quite clear that unless the SST is built our hold on the world aircraft market is doomed."

Magnuson said defeat of the SST funds probably ends the opportunity to create up to 200,000 new jobs. He said the vote may mean the Soviet Union and the French-British team building European versions of the SST probably will dominate the future high-speed air market.

A representative of General Electric, which had been chosen to design and build the world's largest jet engines for SST use, said hope is still alive the House will stick with its earlier approval of the SST and that the conference will ignore the Senate vote.

But Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., like Proxmire a longtime SST foe, said he will call for a record vote to instruct House conferees to go along with the Senate's action. He said the measure almost certainly will be approved.

Proxmire gave much credit for the victory to the highly organized lobbying efforts of a coalition of envirnmental and conservation groups.

And he added: "On top of everything else, I see this vote as a sign of the concern—amounting almost to anger—in the Senate over President Nixon's veto of the appropriations bill that provided vitally needed money for better housing, health care and education."

The SST when first proposed in the administration of the late President John F. Kennedy was to cost no more than $750 million to see the development program through the production of two prototypes.

Proxmire said the latest request for $290 million would have boosted federal funds for the 300-passenger, 1,800 mile an hour craft past the $1 billion level and warned that the end of federal spending probably wasn't in sight.

Whatever the reasons for defeat, there were powerful forces working to assure the SST survived its Senate test.

The Federal Aviation Administration, the SST office in the Department of Transportation, the Surgeon General's Office, the White House and representatives of Boeing all supplied the technical data and support to bolster arguments of SST backers.

Wednesday, the day before the final vote, Magnuson ushered through the Senate a separate bill designed to sooth the fears of undecided and wavering senators.

The bill, passed 77 to 0, would ban over the 50 states all flights capable of producing sonic booms; order SST takeoff and landing noise reduced, and direct the Transportation Department to report fully on all aspects of the development program—including environmental impact—before full commercial production would be authorized.

Some senators said the fact Magnuson found it necessary to make such concessions was reason enough to stop the program altogether, at least pending a full environmental checkout.

Proxmire said he has indications the British may stop further work on their Concorde version of the SST which they are building with the French.

He said the French, too, may call it quits on the SST, indicating much of the impetus behind that nation's interest in the plane came from the nationalistic fervor of the late President Charles de Gaulle.

Defector Probe . . . Threats Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of a House subcommittee investigating the Lithuanian defector incident, angered by a State Department official's failure to show for a hearing, says he will act to subpoena witnesses if necessary.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, accused the Nixon administration of freezing the appearance by Deputy Undersecretary of State William J. Macomber Jr. and delaying congressional investigation in the case of the asylum-seeking sailor forcibly returned to a Soviet vessel.

During a 15-minute hearing by the Foreign Affairs subcommittee Thursday, the witness chair remained vacant. Saying he could only guess at the reason, Hays told reporters:

"It may be . . . that it is going to take the White House some time to get all its people rehearsed with their proper stories."

In reply, a State Department spokesman later said Macomber accepted the request to testify only after the administration's investigation was complete and President Nixon's findings had been made public. Since neither condition was fulfilled, the spokesman added, Macomber didn't go.

Shortly before Macomber's scheduled appearance on Capitol Hill, the White House disclosed new guidelines it said would insure no recurrence of "a shocking incident of this kind" but declined to discuss details of this case it said still is being investigated.

That development came about the time the Soviet embassy in Washington said the sailor—who jumped to a U. S. Coast Guard cutter to plead for political sanctuary but was seized by Soviet crewmen who boarded the American vessel with U. S. permission—had stolen money from his captain's safe and had deserted.

"The attempt to give this case a political interpretation and to present as a martyr the criminal who tried to escape responsibility," the Soviet statement added, "cannot be viewed otherwise than as another hostile anti-Soviet propaganda effort. This can only be regretted."

The incident took place off Martha's Vineyard on the Massachusetts coast Nov. 23 when a Soviet trawler was moored alongside the Coast Guard cutter Vigilant for talks about coastal fishing rights.

On Capitol Hill, the House hearing for the State Department spokesman was re-set for Monday, Hays said, "and if they haven't released Mr. Macomber from captivity, I'm going to ask the (committee) chairman to issue a subpoena."

Egypt Threatens To Resume Fighting

By United Press International

Egypt said today it will resume fighting when the current cease-fire expires Feb 5 unless there are definite moves towards peace.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said the hardline Egyptian message is being taken to President Nixon by Jordan's King Hussein, currently on a six-nation tour to meet with Arab and western leaders.

Al Ahram said Egyptian President Anwar Sadat gave the message to Hussein and asked the king to tell Nixon Egypt "is determined to resume fighting after the cease-fire expires in case there was no progress."

Egypt has been taking an increasingly hard line on the ceasefire, claiming Israel simply is using it to try to solidify its borders and is avoiding sitting down for negotiations.

Egypt also accused Israel of breaking the truce by violating Egyptian air space at the southern tip of the Suez Canal Wednesday and complained to the United Nations. Israel denied the charge.

City Bankers See Upsurge

By JON POWERS

A reduction of one-half of one per cent in the interest ceiling for new FHA and VA home loans has local bank officials predicting a noticeable resurgence in home building activity within the near future.

On Tuesday, Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney and Veterans Administrator Donald E. Johnson announced that the maximum interest ceiling for home loans would be reduced from 8½ to 8 per cent.

It was estimated that the move will cut more than $3,000 off the total interest charge for buying a $25,000 home on a 30-year mortgage backed by the Federal Housing Administration or the Veterans Administration.

What the reduction means, simply, is that it will cost less money to build, finance and mortgage a new home than it has in the past 12 months.

Richard Tonnesen, mortgage officer for Rondout Savings Bank, called the reduction "an excellent sign" and he added, "we've been looking forward to it (the reduction) for a long time."

Bank officials in Kingston are predicting, or at least hoping, that the reduction will spark a new drive in home building. The demand for government backed FHA mortgages has dwindled steadily with the continuing inflationary trend.

The main reason for the decline in popularity of an FHA mortgage is, or was, the 8½ per cent interest rate that has been in effect since Jan. 5, when it was upped from 7½ per cent. Requests for new home mortgages have slumped since then and the demand, say some bank officials, may have come to a complete halt without the recent reduction.

Charles Ryder of the Ulster County Savings Bank predicted that interest rates would "all level off soon," eliminating the current dispartiy between conventional mortgages initiated by local banks and FHA mortgages insured by the government. In the meantime, however, Ryder indicated that "There's not much of a demand for FHA mortgages; there's more of a demand for conventional mortgages."

Will the recent reduction prompt a flurry of building activity? Ryder warns, "there's still a shortage of money."

The "leveling off" of interest rates that Ryder predicted was seconded by other area bankers. It was noted that the interest ceiling for an FHA morgage was 7½ per cent, the same as most conventional mortgages. With Monday's announcement that the ceiling would be dropped for the first time in nine years, bankers are looking forward to additional reductions in coming years.

In making the announcement, Romney urged lending institutions to charge rates lower than the maximum ceiling whenever possible. A spokesman for First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, however, said that "lower rates are not feasible." "We adopt our lending policies according to the national market," said William Paulus. "The market conditions will dictate the interest rates."

In commenting on the recent "downtrend" in interest rates, Clifford Henze of Kingston Savings Bank said, "With the higher interest rate, people backed off from buying a new home. Now, the pent-up demand for new housing may break loose."

That, of course, remains to be seen. Monday's reduction in the interest ceiling should help to reduce the cost of money, but land, labor and materials costs are still sky-high, and climbing.

Sloop Group Adds Directors

COLD SPRING

At its annual membership meeting on Nov. 15, Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc., elected 21 members to its Board of Directors.

The organization, which operates the "Clearwater", broke with its past tradition and asked its membership to nominate directors through petitions. "We are very satisfied that we have the most representative and united group" said Henry W. Dobson of Mahwah, N.J., who is the newly elected president.

Other officers and members are: Mrs. John H. Duffy, Poughkeepsie, chairman of the board; Leonard Bard, Poughkeepsie, vice-president; James C. Collier, Chelsea, vice-president; Miss Lynne Beers, Stratford, Conn., treasurer; Fred Starner, Florham Park, N.J., secretary.

Other board members are Robert Bielenberg, Garrison, Robert Boyle, Croton, Craig Brooks, Spring Valley, Robert Gannon, Tillson, Davidson Gilligan, Kingston, Reid Haslam, Ossining, Peter Hennesey, Cold Spring, Robert McLaughlin, Newburgh, Alexander Saunders Sr., Garrison, Gerald Silverberg, Carmel, Samuel Shorr, Albany, David Sommer, New York, Noel Tepper, Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Ernest Waivada, Garrison, and Richard Wilkie, Albany.

The directors also announced that the Restoration has received a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts in the amount of $32,000—$21,700 is to defray the cost of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic concerts and advance work done for the summer 1970 Sloop Festivals. $10,300 is to be used for the operation of a museum in Cold Spring, historical research and for the operation of the organization's exhibit facilities which tour the Hudson Valley each summer.

PO to Keep Watch On the Weather

KINGSTON

The U.S. Postal Service today activated a trouble-shooting "Christmas Control Center" designed to keep the holiday mail load moving regardless of weather conditions and other problems, Kingston Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk said today.

The headquarters information operation, now in its seventh year, will provide nationwide control over a record Christmas mailing of an expected 9 billion-plus pieces.

From now until January 9, twelve hours each day, a dozen experts from the Postal Operations Department will man the center. They will be armed with a battery of telephones and a weather-reporting TWX machine which will provide frequent bulletins directly from the weather bureau on seasonal conditions all over the nation that may affect mail movement.

In addition to the headquarters operation, each of the 15 postal regional offices throughout the country will maintain its own control center to keep a finger on the pulse of regional mail activities. The regions will report to Washington on how the mail is moving from the 170 major post offices.

By providing prompt information from all areas, the control centers will enable the Postal Service to bypass severe weather conditions and divert mail where necessary, with the goal of delivering every parcel and letter on time. In addition, they will provide a daily report for the headquarters" staff on volume and production, permitting officials to spot areas where transportation and delivery emergencies may develop. The headquarters center is a focal point of Christmas mail movements. Lighted maps and charts give a rapid up-to-date assessment of how the Christmas operation is proceeding in various parts of the country.

2 Eve Post In Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK

Two persons have expressed interest in finishing retiring Town Justice George Harrington's term on the Rhinebeck Town Board, according to Supervisor William Allen.

One is Herman Tietjen, who ran for a justice spot one year ago against Carl Ulrich and Judge DeWitt Gurnell. Gurnell won the Republican nomination over Tietjen, and also received the Democratic endorsement. Tietjen is a Rhinebeck lawyer.

The other interested party is Ed Gray of Mill Road, according to Allen. He said he is not a lawyer but "an interested resident."

Judge Harrington, a week ago, announced his plans to retire Dec. 31 due to ill health.

Whoever receives the nod from the Town Board will have to stand for reelection in November, 1971.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 4, 1970

Full Employment in 1971

The Nixon Administration has given the highest priority to a bread and butter issue—full employment by mid-1971. The President is willing to accept a substantial budget deficit, if necessary, to attain this goal. The lesson of the 1970 election has dug deep. It is almost universally accepted that re-election depends almost wholly on full employment before the next general election.

Unemployment now is at 5.6 per cent—which means 4.5 million people who want work cannot find it. At the usual ratio of four to a family, that could mean that 18 million persons are without the support that a good job could bring them. That brings the problem closer to home for a good many people, and explains why it is so important at the ballot box.

The administration has stuck to its guns in fighting inflation, even at the price of raising unemployment. Now, however, it feels the worst of the inflationary forces have been "squeezed out" of the economy. This has built a base for cutting back unemployment to a tolerable four per cent, without triggering a new round of inflation.

The emphasis next year will shift from control of inflatilon to expansion of economic growth. For this purpose, the Federal Reserve Board has agreed to set its target at a steady five per cent growth of the money supply. That policy, combined with a full employment budget, will lead to a significant dollar deficit in the next fiscal year.

Call it unemployment politics if you will, the big turnover in governorships, the fact that Senate gains were disappointing to the President though he had put his prestige on the line, and the so-so-results in the House, all tell the same story: The next two years are going to be crucial to Mr. Nixon, and he is politician enough to recognize and heed the warning. The answer is that 1971 will see him straining to raise jobs. The message to the country is that business must improve to provide the needed jobs.

Murky Waters of Politics

Because he felt that the major-party candidates were not addressing themselves to what he considered to be the "real issues" the nation and his district should be concerned with, journalist Robert Wischmeyer filed as a nonpartisan write-in candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives in Ohio's 23rd Congressional District.

In the three short weeks he had to campaign, Wischmeyer succeeded in persuading 500 people to his views, out of some 189,000 who voted in the recent election in that district.

He also learned what every politician, or would-be politician, sooner or later learns: You can't please all the people all the time. In fact, sometimes you can't even figure them out.

After one speech, a member of the audience came up to Wischmeyer and said, quite seriously, "If you don't like the way this country is being run, why don't you try working within the system?"

A candidate is never supposed to be at a loss for words. This time this one was.

Cutting Heating Bills

Mrs. Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer advisor, has issued tips on cutting fuel bills this winter on the possibility that there may be a fuel shortage in much of the country. Recalling the fuel shortages during World War II, and the response of the public, who were instrumental in keeping domestic fuel usage down to a minimum, she said another crisis this winter again should bring out the best in people.

Better insulation and lower thermostat settings could reduce fuel bills in half, she said. Heating costs increase about three per cent for every degree over 70 on the thermostat.

Insulation is another big saver. Starting with the attic and moving down, a fully insulated house can save 45 to 55 per cent on the fuel bill. In addition, storm windows or doors and sealed cracks in door and window frames will also add to the saving.

There is much more to Mrs. Knauer's instructions—which may be secured by writing her at the Executive Office Building, Washington, D. C., 20502. They will not only help prevent fuel shortage this winter, but save consumers considerable money on their fuel bills.

The story of the seven King children, orphaned by the crash of the plane that took the lives of the Wichita College football team, redeems faith in human nature. Mary Lynne, 18, left college to care for her six brothers and sisters, 4 to 16 years of age. Their parents, Ray King, a Kansas representative, and his wife provided for them "sufficiently" and also have given them the strength of faith to remain together.

"Wonder How He Would Pay for a Campaign Today?"

David Lawrence Says
Wage, Price Rises Are Bound to Boost Inflation

WASHINGTON — Although everybody knew that General Motors and the United Automobile Workers, during a long strike, were negotiating an agreement with big wage increases, the Nixon administration didn't say a word about it until this week. Then the President's Council of Economic Advisers formally pronounced the settlement to be inflationary.

The wage rises, which average about seven per cent a year over three years, were described as too high to be compatible with a stable price level, and a warning was given that the higher wages together with an upward movement in auto prices would cause many more Americans to switch to foreign-made cars. The White House report, which is significantly worded, says:

"It is clear that this settlement, if generalized throughout the economy, would crowd further upward cost for unit of output and, therefore, the price level. It also raises cost further in an industry where producers overseas are accounting for a substantial and growing share of the domestic market....

"This year's large price increases inevitably expose the domestic industry and its employes to increased competition from cars made overseas."

It was also pointed out that there have been price increases in the fuel transportation and copper industries as well as in automobiles, all of which contribute to inflation.

The President's council mentions the "slack in the economy" and the rise in the unemployment rate to 5.6 per cent, and appeals to business and labor for voluntary restraint to check inflation. Thus, the administration confesses that, although it is making every effort to curb inflation, wages and prices are rising in industry after industry at a rate that is bound to increase inflation. The report of the President's council noted that auto prices for 1970-model cars have been raised about six per cent and have added about 2.5 billion dollars to the total cost to consumers.

But all these statistics will not change the policies of either businessmen or labor leaders. For, as acceptance of wage demands is forced by strikes, expenses inevitably rise, too. The real question is: How does the administration expect business to exercise "voluntary restraint"? Profits in many instances have already been cut substantially, and lots of compnaies in this country are operating in the red.

Some observers interpret the President's report as meaning that the administration may be considering the restoration of the wage "guidelines" used by the Kennedy and Johnson administration, under which wage increases were limited to about three per cent a year, based on the long-range average increase in productivity. Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the President's council says:

"We can have gains of compensation per man hour at about three per cent a year, and have stable unit labor costs and therefore stable price levels."

But experience in the past has shown that "voluntary restraint" doesn't work, both the labor leaders and management feel they have to meet the conditions that confront them, and when the "guidelines" make "restraint" impracticable, they ignore such appeals.

The only alternative, of course, is what is known as "wage and price control," whereby the government steps in and fixes the rate of wage increase and also the price levels. The administration doesn't want to do this because politically it is fraught with many perils. But certainly to allow the economy to drift along with more and more strikes and more and more settlements involving big wage boosts, followed by rises in prices, doesn't augur well for the restoration of stability.

So the big question is whether the President's council has made its report as a basis for Mr. Nixon to initiate some restrictive action that will be far more effective than a dependence on "voluntary restraint."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Everywhere in the world, except in the United States, Christmas is a traditional and holy holiday. Here, it's a profit. Here it is a license to get drunk; to attend riotous office parties, to look for extra bonuses; to stop, to spend, to gorge one's self with rich foods, to brainwash helpless little minds with tales of a nonexistent Santa; to kiss the wrong people under a sprig of holly.

The Bible says that a child named Jesus, son of a Nazarene named Joseph the Carpenter, was born in the winter solstice at Bethlehem, town of David. The nearest any of the scholars have come to the date of his birth is December 25—and that is a guess. So it was agreed that Christians would celebrate the coming of the Messiah on that date every year.

Somewhere along the road of time, we lost Jesus. He was outranked by a jolly fat fable called Santa Claus—reputably but inaccurately described as a replica of Saint Nicholas, who made toys all year long at the North Pole and flew the night winds of Christmas Eve behind his reindeer to deposit gifts around a pine tree for youngsters.

No, Virginia, there is no Santa Claus. There is a Jesus, a meek baby who was circumcised a Jew by his own father in the temple at Bethlehem. He is as real as the bright stars winking in the black velvet of the heavens. He has time for us; we have none for him.

Throughout the ages, men built their most majestic churches on the highest hills, to be nearer to God. A naive thought, but executed with the best intentions. In Germany, before World War I, the mothers woke father and the children before dawn. No one was allowed in the room with the Christmas tree to see the presents.

Everyone dressed in his best. When the last one was ready, father led his family out into the darkness, armed only with a lighted candle. The silhouette of the big cathedral could be seen far off on the highest hill. The people marched with secret, happy smiles, because this was Jesus' birthday and he must be honored first.

When the family reached the height of the hill, they could look back and see the thousands of candles, rivers of fire in the darkness, all leading to God.

When services were over, the pink and yellow rays of dawn stood in the east like fan. The candles were blown out and the gray smoke of wax was associated in the nostrils with Christmas.

The children danced ahead. Now they would be permitted to open that closed door. Now they could see and smell the goodness of the Christmas tree. The real candles, clipped to branches, would be lighted by father, and the sleds, the dolls, the baby carriages, the block toys would be under the tree or a sheet.

Later, the big dinner would come from a steamy kitchen, with wood crackling and popping in the stove. There would be nuts to crack and pies to devour. Little ones often fell asleep with their heads on their plates.

Now it is gone. Christmas is business. The name of Jesus is used in blasphemy. In many cities, Christmas lights and trees are up on November 15. Toys are sold that require master mechanics to put together. Each honky-tonk radio station tries to beat all the others playing Christmas jingles for five weeks until the point of nausea is reached.

Christmas parties at offices become orgies. Little ones are encouraged in personal greed by writing to tell Santa what they want—without a word about whose birthday is being celebrated. Millions go to church as a matter of duty—not love. In the hill at Bethlehem, where the inn stood, army officers look through binoculars at Jordan, 23 miles away, and the Dead Sea.

The Prince of Peace brought no peace because man was not ready for him. Man is less ready now. He has his own toys, which will destroy entire cities in a solitary flash, fusing people and buildings together like metaled glass. Once he killed one man with one bullet. Today he can kill ten million with one missile.

At the downtown corners, the red-coated, white bearded Santas clang their little bells over pots and sing: "Ho, ho, ho! Merry Christmas, everybody!" They couldn't care less. They are cold and miserable and want you to drop a coin in a pot for the less fortunate, such as he is.

Once, when Heywood Broun was a cub reporter, he arrived at his newspaper office early and heard all the telegraph machines chattering at once. He thought it might be the biggest story in the world. It was. When a telegrapher arrived, he said that all the machines were saying the same thing: "A child is born. A child is born. A child is born."

That's Christmas...

Jack Anderson Says
Governor-Bugging Expose' Gives Capital Notables Jitters

WASHINGTON — Those infernal red telephones, which were wired to pick up the talk in at least six governors' offices, have raised new concern about eavesdropping.

The apprehension over hidden bugs and wiretaps has become so acute in Washington that officials at the highest levels guard their utterances as if the walls had ears.

Ex-Attorney General Ramsey Clark tells us that no less than Lyndon Johnson was worried about the privacy of his vice presidential office. Other former aides say he suspected even his White House office might have been bugged.

During an eavesdropping scare in the late 1960's, the Federal Communications Commission was asked to check various senatorial suites for electronic taps, discovered in the offices of two Senators.

Some Senators were so nervous over what the FBI might be overhearing that Ramsey Clark, while he headed the Justice Department, asked J. Edgar Hoover bluntly whether the FBI kept dossiers on members of Congress. The FBI director sent a memo categorically denying the existence of any such dossiers.

Evidentally Hoover didn't consider the raw files — which the FBI definitely does keep on some members — to be "dossiers." Miscellaneous information about these including references picked up by secret listening devices, is deposited routinely in the files.

The famous FBI bug in lobbyist Fred Black's hotel suite, for example, picked up a number of conversations Although no illegal activity was indicated, agents followed up the intercepted conversations for no apparent purpose than to pry into the lawmakers' affairs.

Snooping on Legislators

The agents, of course, were most discreet. After overhearing Black make a breakfast date with House Democratic Leader Carl Albert and then-Senator Mike Monroney to discuss the location of a new aircraft plant in their home state of Oklahoma, Hoover's men slipped up to Capitol Hill the next morning to snoop around.

Their reports to the director were so hush-hush that they even used a code word for "Secret" and stamped their reports "June."

"No surveillance was maintained in the Senate Office Building," they assured Hoover, who is touchy about getting caught spying on politicians. "However WFO, (Washington Field Office) made a discreet survey of the streets in the vicinity of the Senate Office Building for Black's car during the pertinent period with negative results . . . WFO will be alert for any information which would indicate Black did or did not keep his appointment with Sen. Mike Monroney and Rep. Carl Albert."

The Fred Black bug was identified even in the "June" memos merely as WF 1441-C. Cautioned one memo: "Information received from WF 1441-C, if utilized, should be carefully paraphrased to protect the identity of the source. No dissemination of information from this source is to be made outside the Bureau without prior Bureau authorization."

Most FBI memoes referred to the bug as an unidentified "informant." Complained one memo: "During the period the informant obtained this information, there was considerable interference encountered and much of the information obtained by the informant was garbled and unintelligible."

FBI in Bedroom

Black used his hotel suite strictly as an office. But on at least two occasions, the hidden listening device picked up bedroom scenes. All this was eagerly reported in the FBI summaries.

In the case of one couple who borrowed Black's suite, according to the FBI account, "the informant noted that they spent most of the time in the bedroom of the suite. This activity occurred during the middle of the day."

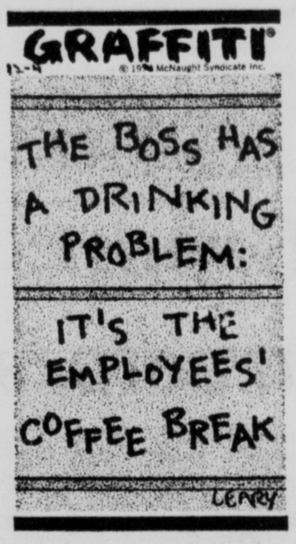

On the other occasion, a prominent Washington figure brought a girl into Black's suite. Identifying the man by name, the secret FBI report said: "(They) utilized Black's rooms for approximate one hour during the morning . . . During most of the time, the male and female utilized the bedroom."

Hoover used to forward such titillating accounts to former President Johnson, who had a fine appreciation for a story about a leader's extracurricular love life. A typical backstairs report, passed on to the White House alleged affair of the late Rev. Martin Luther King.

In his memoirs, ex-Attorney General Francis Biddle told how after he and Hoover became friends, the FBI director used to entertain him with stories of "the intimate details of what my associates in the Cabinet did and said, their likes and dislikes, their weakness and their associations. Edgar was not above relishing a story derogatory towards occupants of one of the seats of the mighty."

Over the years, Hoover has made a habit of scribbling intemperate remarks, signed with the initial "H," in the margins of FBI reports. His subordinates, knowing his strong prejudices, also make derogatory references to people he doesn't like. One memo even made sneering references to ex-Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach's facial expressions.

Footnote: FBI eavesdropping isn't nearly as widespread, however, as Washington officials imagine. This column is convinced, after making careful checks with sources inside the FBI, that the FBI is now operating less than 60 listening devices and wiretaps across the country. On a local basis, however, FBI offices have arranged with local police forces to install bugs and taps.

Import Curbs, Worst Piece Of Legislation in Years

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washintgon Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—It is practically no contest. The protectionist trade bill which passed the House and is pending in the Senate is just about the worst piece of legislation Congress has considered in the last 30 or 40 years.

To begin with, as the measure now rests in the Senate Finance committee, it is tied to a major Social Security bill calling for increased benefits and other changes. The idea was simple but crude: To attach a questionable trade idea was simple but crude: To attach a questionable trade proposal to a social program that few senators will be able to resist.

This rider technique always has been of dubious worth, but it has never been more grossly abused than in this instance. The first order of business for responsible senators should be to separate these two totally unrelated measures so each can be judged in its own.

As for the protectionist bill, it clearly threatens to plunge us into cruel trade combat with our best customers abroad, to deepen rather than ease our domestic economic difficulties, and especially to strip away vital foreign markets for America's already troubled agriculture.

The bill, of course, would impose quotas on textiles and shoes, compel President Nixon to hold down oil imports by law instead of administered quotas as at present, and would open the door to a whole range of additional quotas wherever imports of a particular kind amount to 15 per cent of the U.S. market for that product. Some estimates suggest another 125 items would qualify under this "trigger" feature.

The worst part about this bill is the way it grew from a mere textile import proposal, designed as a club to drive Japanese textile exporters into accepting voluntary curbs, into the current monstrosity.

It all began with Nixon's reckless 1968 campaign promise, aimed at southern manufacturers and politicians, to act to curb textile imports.

Talks with Europeans and Japanese in 1969 over voluntary quotas failed. Nor have new talks with Japan, still on, made much headway, though the Japanese now seem alarmed at the possible political deterioration which could result from the sweeping bill before the Senate.

The fact is, no convincing case ever has been made for textile quotas. Our government's own figures place 1969 imports at 4.2 per cent, a percentage of the U.S. market that looks modest beside the 15 per cent "trigger mechanism" in the bill. Textile employment rose from 1961 through 1969, and recent declines are proportionately all U.S. manufacturing. Sales and profits hit record highs in 1969.

When imposed textile quotas became a hard prospect instead of just a club, the antiprotectionist walls collapsed. Shoes, whose imports are 12.5 per cent of our market by dollar volume, were added. Oil was quietly sneaked in. Then came the "trigger" clause.

This whole disorderly, irresponsible process went forward in the face of the direst warnings issued both here and abroad.

The European Economic Community, via Ralf Dahrendorf, flatly said it would seek serious retaliation (curbs on U.S. exports) through GATT, the world trade and tariff agency. Secretary of State William Rogers and others here echoed the peril.

The Japanese publicly are saying they will not retaliate but, in fact, they can easily shift purchases from America to other suppliers without ever declaring formal trade war.

Our farm exports confront the gravest danger. We export half our huge soybean crop 41 per cent of wheat output, 58 per cent of rice production, 36 per cent of our tobacco, nearly 30 per cent of cotton.

The EEC in fiscal 1970 took nearly $600 million in U.S. soybeans, while Japan bought $200 million worth. Totals are high for other items.

Leading Illinois had $650 million in farm exports last fiscal year, with California showing $555 million, Iowa $505 million, Texas $421 million, North Carolina (a textile state) $406 million. Altogether, 26 states stand to lose income and jobs if exports are throttled.

Pile on top of this threat the very real prospect of more fuel for inflation if the trade bill wins. Government men disagree, but the outlook for higher prices for protected products is hard to discount.

Plugging Attempt at Blazing Well

GULF COAST INFERNO — A helicopter hovers near the blazing Shell Oil Co., "Baker" platform as a lre ball rises from the inferno being fed by oil and gas wells. Part of the platform collapsed before newsmen on a charter boat as the fire intensified. Two men died and a third is missing and presumed dead when a well on the platform blew out and ignited on Tuesday in the Gulf of Mexico, 60 miles south of New Orleans. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Four big drilling rigs were ordered in today to try to cut off the flow from a cluster of flaming oil wells by inserting plugs beneath the Gulf of Mexico's bottom.

The wells, connected to an explosion-wracked control platform 10 miles off shore, were feeding the biggest oil fire in the history of the business.

How many of the 22 working wells were spewing fuel to the flames was uncertain. The Coast Guard estimated seven.

A spokesman for Shell Oil Co., owner of the wells, said the oil would be kept on fire to minimize sea pollution while workmen try to bring the flow under control—a project that may take weeks.

The Coast Guard said a light slick of unburned oil extended from the platform about eight miles to the northwest Thursday, with smaller slicks fanning out in other directions.

In Washington, the Interior Department said it still intends to hold the first sale of offshore oil leases in 18 months on Dec. 15.

Such sales were cut off after a Chevron Oil Co. platform fire in the Gulf last February spilled thousands of barrels of crude into the sea.

Part of Shell's metal platform collapsed Thursday as the intensity of the fire increased.

The automated platform, about half the size of a football field, stands on stilts in 60 feet of water 65 miles south of New Orleans.

An explosion touched off the fire Tuesday as a crew was trying to pipe in a new well. Two men were killed.

The Shell spokesman said the drilling rigs would be moved into position to drill intersecting shafts into the wells. When connections are made, heavy mud will be pumped down the shafts to plug the wells.

The spokesman said apparently the surface safety valves failed on several of the wells after the explosion and fire, and for reasons unknown, the subsurface safety valves had not closed.

All wells connected to the platform were equipped with subsurface safety valves, called storm chokes, the spokesman added.

After the Chevron fire, four oil companies were fined more than $1.5 million for failure to install storm chokes. Shell has pleaded innocent to 170 counts of failing to have storm chokes on 40 wells. The burning wells were not among them.

Independent Agency Sought To Coordinate Attack on Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of scientists and prominent laymen today called for an independent government agency to coordinate the nation's attack on cancer, a disease they say will strike one of every four Americans unless checked.

The agency would coordinate research, assist clinics, disburse grants, and provide for a central information bank. The cost: up to $1 billion annually within five years.

The panel, in a report prepared for the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare, said the National Cancer Institute is not equal to the task of bringing cancer to heel.

The institute, a division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, is principal coordinator of the government's efforts against cancer. It received $182 million in federal funds in 1969. The American Cancer Society, a nongovernment group, spends $24 million a year for research and some smaller voluntary agencies spend another $5 million.

A coordinated national effort will hasten eventual victory over cancer, which claimed 329,000 lives last year, the committee said. But the experts stopped short of setting a deadline.

The report is the work of a 26-man committee, set up by congressional resolution three years ago.

Panelists included a Nobel prize winner, presidents of the American Cancer Society and the American Public Health Association, and several prominent businessmen and executives.

The committee said the United States in 1969 spent $410 per person on national defense, $19 per person on the space program, and 89 cents per person on cancer research.

It said cancer currently cost this nation $15 billion a year—$3 billion to $5 billion in direct care and treatment and the rest in lost earning power and productivity.

It estimated the proposed national program would cost $400 million in the coming fiscal year —about double the present level of federal expenditures for cancer research. The eventual cost would be between $800 million and $1 billion by 1976.

The committee said polls taken in recent years show cancer the No. 1 health concern of the American people with 62 per cent of the public having it more than any other disease.

It said unless the disease is checked, 50 million of the slightly more than 200 million Americans alive today will develop cancer and 34 million will die from it.

The committee's report said all available evidence indicated the death rate from cancer could be cut 15 per cent if everyone stopped smoking cigarettes.

Name Bodyguard Of Rocky to Black River Post

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) —State police Maj. Edward M. Galvin, Governor Rockefeller's retiring bodyguard, has been named to an extended term on the Hudson River-Black River regulating district board.

Galvin, who will retire from the troopers this month, will succeed F. James Williams Jr. of Loudonville for a term to end Sept. 1, 1975. Members of the board receive $5,000 annually.

Galvin had been named earlier this year for a term ending Sept. 1, 1972.

Williams, whose old term ended last September, was named to the shorter term which Galvin vacated.

U.S. Attorney Gets Transcript Of Non-Testifying Witness

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A transcript went today to the U.S. attorney in the first step toward prosecution of a former soldier who would not repeat to a military court the story of point-blank slaughter of Vietnamese civilians with which he shocked the nation a year ago.

Limping on an artificial right foot that replaced the one he lost to a land mine the day after the alleged My Lai massacre, Paul David Meadlo, a civilian, was escorted from the Calley court-martial late Thursday by military policemen.

After half an hour of detention at the Ft. Benning provost marsahl's office, he was allowed to go to his room on post and remain under the status of a witness under subpoena, without guard.

Meadlo, 23, a former Indiana farm boy, came here from Terre Haute with his attorney and declined to answer any questions about what happened in the Vietnamese hamlet on March 16, 1968. On network television Nov. 24, 1969, he told of killings by himself and 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr.

Calley, 27, is charged with 102 civilian murders which the government says were committed by him or his platoon members at his command. Thursday Meadlo declined to answer at least 16 questions about the search-and-destroy sweep. In the broadcast, he said the Calley platoon killed around 370 unarmed civilians.

Meadlo also took the fifth amendment in the Texas court-martial last month in which S. Sgt. David Mitchell was acquitted of charges of assault with attempt to murder at My Lai. But at the Calley trial, he declined to testify despite the Ft. Benning commander's signed grant of immunity, pledging the government not to use his testimony for criminal prosecution.

Meadlo said his attorney, John Kesler, had advised him not to answer any question that might incriminate him.

The military judge Col. Reid W. Kennedy, turned to Meadlo on the witness stand and warned, "If anybody goes to jail, it's going to be you and not your lawyer." Meadlo, calm and soft-spoken, still declined.

Guilty Plea On Trespassing

PINE HILL

Alfonse Rao, 39, of Pine Hill and his 30-year-old wife Dolores are awtiing sentencing by Town of Shandaken Justice Edwin France after their arrest Wednesday afternoon on a charge of third degree criminal trespass.

The two entered guilty pleas at arraignment proceedings Wednesday. No date has yet been set for sentencing. The two were released in their own recognizance.

Rao and his wife were arrested at 12:45 Wednesday afternoon by Ulster County Sheriff's Deputy Richard Ostrander on the property of Jerome Schwartz of Pine Hill. Police found the two peering into a window of Schwartz' home.

A warrant for their arrest was signed by Justice France.

Supreme Court Upholds Extradition of Angela

NEW YORK (UPI) — State Supreme Court Justice Thomas Dickens Thursday upheld an order calling for the extradition of black militant Angela Davis to California to face murder and kidnap charges.

Dickens denied a writ of habeas corpus, but stayed execution of the extradition for five days to give her attorneys time to appeal his decision to the Appellate Division.

Miss Davis' attorneys said they would appeal to both state and federal courts, if necessary. Governor Rockefeller signed the extradition order in October at the request of California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

John J. Abt, attorney for the 26-year-old former philosophy instructor at the University of California at Los Angeles, argued extradition was unconstitutional because she had been refused a transcript of the grand jury meeting during which she was indicted.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Thomas Andrews replied "The alleged denial of due rights to the defendant must be litigated in California, not here."

David R. Poindexter Jr., who was arrested with Miss Davis in a midtown Manhattan motel in October and charged with harboring a fugitive, said he thought Miss Davis eventually would be extradited.

He was one of a group demonstrating quietly outside the court while the hearings were in progress.

Poindexter also said the defendant would not get a fair trial in California.

Burglary Probe In Ellenville— Youth Arrested

ELLENVILLE

Investigation of a recent burglary led to the arrest on Thursday of Glenn Hines, 17, of this village, on a charge of criminal possession of stolen preperty third degree.

Hines was arraigned before Wawarsing Town Justice Frank Spada, who adjourned hearing until Dec. 10 at 7 p.m. The arrest was made by Sergeant Norman Green of the village police and BCI Investigator R. J. O'Hara.

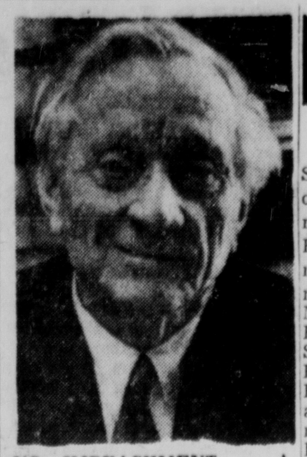

The youth allegedly had in his possession articles stolen in a burglary at 151 Center Street which was investigated by Green and Officer J. C. Corwin.

Charged in City Trespass Case

Investigation by police early today of a complaint from the West Shore Hotel, 37 Railroad Avenue, resulted in the arrest of 24-year-old Michael Williams of 7 Water Street, New Paltz, on a charge of criminal trespass first degree.

The complaint was made by Donald Stokes of the hotel, who accused the defendant of entering the building and going to a room without permission. Williams was scheduled for City Court appearance.

1969 Conviction Of Barber Is Upheld in Court

KINGSTON

Five Supreme Court Justices in the Court of Appeals, Albany, have upheld an Ulster County jury's verdict in the case of The People against Larnel Barber, sentenced in late 1969 to up to seven years in prison after having been charged with six counts involving selling and possession of drugs.

The results of the appeal were announced today by District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca's office. Assistant District Attorney Edward M. P. Greene handled the appeal.

Sitting on the Court of Appeals were Justice J. Clarence Herlihy, Justice Walter B. Reynolds, Justice Ellis J. Staley Jr., Justice Louis M. Greenblott and Justice Michael E. Sweeney.

Barber was indicted by the Ulster County Grand Jury April 18, 1969, for criminally possessing drugs in the second and fourth degrees and criminally selling drugs in the second degree. The jury brought in a guilty verdict in County Court and presiding Judge Raymond J. Mino pronounced sentence.

Check Case Is Adjourned

KINGSTON

Accused of issuing fraudulent checks at an uptown market, Joseph DiBella, 36, of Route 6, Box 387, Lake Katrine, pleaded innocent Thursday before Special City Judge George A. Beck and his case was adjourned until Dec. 10.

DiBella, who was arrested by the detective division of the Kingston Police Department, was accused of issuing two checks totaling about $75 at Schneller's Market on John Street.

Public Hearing Set in Tivoli

TIVOLI

The Tivoli Village Board will hold its public hearing on two proposed new local laws in conjunction with its regular board meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

The laws are entitled "Litter Control Law" and "Unsafe Buildings and Collapsed Structures Law."

The unsafe buildings law would empower a local zoning, building and sanitary inspector to condemn such structures as didn't meet the guidelines set forth in the law. If no compliance by the owner were forthcoming, the building could then be demolished by the Village at the cos' of the owner.

The litter control law would specify several types of pollution of water and land, as well as spell out what constitutes litter and what fines can be imposed for harboring an undesirable situation.

Some U.S. Enterprises Flourishing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although the economy as a whole has been limping rather badly this year, a few enterprises are flourishing. For example, nurseries.

"Business is definitely up." Robert F. Lederer, vice president of the American Association of Nurserymen, reported a few days ago.

"We've analyzed the reasons and find that in uncertain economic times Americans tend to put more time and money into improving their immediate surroundings. This is true even in areas of heavy unemployment in the country.

"During the depression a lot of people grew their own food. This may be a similar expression of feelings and emotions when the going gets tougher, taking to the soil and getting enjoyment from watching things grow."

Lederer is so right. Like a month or so ago my wife suggested that I take the family out to a movie.

"There's a good film playing at the Bijour," she said.

"I'm really not in the mood for a movie and with economic conditions so uncertain I hesitate to invest in theater tickets anyway," I replied. "But I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll drive out to the Elysian Nursery and buy a new flaxberry bush. Then we can put it in the soil and watch it grow."

My children jumped up and clapped their hands. "That's great, Dad!" one of them exclaimed. And the other one said, "We would rather watch a flaxberry bush grow than go to a movie any ol' day."

My wife said, "But where are you going to find room to plant it?"

One Next to the Other

"I was thinking of planting it next to that flaxberry bush I bought last week instead of taking you out to dinner," I told her.

She said, "Well, we all get a thrill out of watching the flaxberry bushes grow, but that is mainly a daytime activity. When I mentioned going to the movies I was thinking in terms of nighttime entertainment."

"Good point," I said. "How about after supper let's go out and shine our flashlights on the flaxberry? Does that sound like a fun evening?"

They all agreed it was a capital idea and I've never been so popular with my family. Every time I bring home another flaxberry bush, they hold hands and dance around me singing "Welcome, Mr. Nice Guy."

County Gets Report on . . .

Cooper Lake water are spelled out in a Water Power and Control Commission memorandum dated, May 27, 1929.

Because of the large area involved in the county-wide study, it was found convenient to subdivide the county into six "service areas" with each area being provided with at least one suitable source of water supply.

The areas are governed by need, in addition to population, topography and estimated cost considerations and do not necessarily follow town, village or municipal boundaries.

In the year 2020, the end of the 50-year study, it is estimated that the six service areas will provide about 75 per cent of the county's population with a dependable and potable water supply.

Lands not included in the service areas will continue to be supplied by individual wells, springs and small water systems, serving a limited number of customers.

Sources of supply for the six service areas were chosen as follows:

● Service Area A, which includes the City of Kingston, Towns of Ulster, Kingston, Hurley (except West Hurley), Marbletown and Rosendale, to be served by water from the Catskill Aqueduct with extra water supplied by excess water from Cooper Lake.

● Service Area B, which includes Woodstock and West Hurley, to be served by Cooper Lake.

● Service Area C, which includes the Towns of Wawarsing and Rochester, to be served by the Delaware Aqueduct.

● Service Area D, Town of Esopus, to join Service Area A when demand of the existing Hudson River plant exceeds one million gallons per day.

● Service Area E, which includes the Towns of Marlborough and Lloyd, to be served by both the Delaware Aqueduct and the Hudson River. The Town of Marlborough will be served by the Aqueduct, while the Town of Lloyd will be served by expanding the existing Hudson River treatment plant.

● Service Area F, includes the Towns of New Paltz, Gardiner, Shawangunk and Plattekill, will be served by water from the Catskill Aqueduct. The Town of New Paltz will continue to use the existing tap while the remainder of the area will be supplied by a new Aqueduct tap at Ireland Corners.

Among factors leading to the choosing of the Aqueducts was the Water Supply Act of 1905 which grants counties through which the aqueducts pass, the right to take water from them. Also, the water from the aqueducts meets minimum standards without expensive treatment.

Considered too, is the aqueducts relative proximity to population centers and the fact that the taps are located at either high elevations or are under pressures and water may be distributed through gravity feed. Water from other sources such as the Hudson River requires pumping to open reservoirs or storage tanks at higher elevations.

Even though water must be purchased from the City of New York, while others might be free for the taking, the aqueducts were found to provide the most reasonable water supply in the long run.

The report states further that little land acquisition will be necessary and that costs will be shared by each municipality in proportion to the benefit it derives from the improvement.

The responsibility for operation of the proposed water systems will lie with a governing body, the County Water District, which will supervise the six individual districts and be directly responsible to the County Legislature.

Hekler points out that following public hearings on the proposal and the Planning Board's adoption of the study, all future federally and state-aided water plans in the county would have to comply with the master plan if they are to be government funded.

Benjamin L. Webster is chairman of the Planning Board and Raymond Druthers is chairman of the services committee.

Village Plans Phosphate-Free Detergent Test

LIVONIA, N. Y. (AP) — For an anti-pollution experiment, all 500 housewives in this village 20 miles south of Rochester are being asked to use phosphate-free detergents exclusively for the next two years.

Dr. Herman S. Forest, a Geneseo State College biologist running the study, said the experiment would not be successful unless 90 per cent of the women cooperated.

The purpose of the experiment, he said Thursday night, was to study the effect of sewage and phosphates on the growth of algae and weeds in Wilkins Creek, which receives effluent from Livonia's waste-treatment plant.

A new plant is to open in two years.

Forest said he would explain the experiment and try to obtain the housewives' cooperation in it at a public meeting next Wednesday. The phosphate-free detergent would be provided at cost by a national distributor, he said.

Interest Rates Are Reduced by 3 Major Banks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three major banks have reduced interest rates for typical small loan borrowers, enabling the man on the street to benefit from the current downward trend in the cost of money.

The Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, third largest in the nation, joined the shift Thursday with an across the board reduction of about one-half per cent in interest charges on all types of consumer installment loans up to $5,000.

On Wednesday, in San Francisco, the Bank of America, the nation's largest, and the Wells Fargo Bank announced similar actions. Several other banks were reported considering the move.

The cut affects small business loans and home improvement, vacation and personal loans. Conventional home mortgages are not affected by the action.

Joblessness Climbs To 5.8, a New High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joblessness climbed to the highest level in more than seven years in November, totaling 5.8 per cent of the nation's work force, the government announced today. The 0.2 per cent increase meant 350,000 persons were added to the unemployment since October.

The monthly figures were released nine hours before a major speech on the economy by President Nixon.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) also reported that average weekly earnings of factory workers declined by 66 cents, reducing average paycheck to $121.07. That was attributed to a 0.2 per cent reduction in the average work week.

The report listed 4.6 million persons as looking for work in November. That was 1.9 million more than a year ago when the jobless rate was only 3.4 per cent—a post-Korean War low.

The 5.8 per cent level last month was the highest since May, 1963, when it stood at 5.9 per cent.

A spokesman for the AFL-CIO said that "we're sad to find out that our projections were again correct" about a continued rise in joblessness and said it was further evidence of the need for "a new administration game plan" to deal with the economy.

The BLS said most of the increased unemployment occurred among white workers, predominantly young women. A spokesman said the rise was mainly due to secondary effects of the auto workers strike against General Motors which has now been settled.

However, administration economists have acknowledged that unemployment may rise to more than 6 per cent before leveling off.

"White workers accounted for all of the November increase in joblessness," the report said. "Their unemployment rate moved up from 5.2 to 5.5 per cent, the highest since October, 1961. The jobless rate for negroes at 8.8 per cent, edged down from the October level of 9.3 per cent."

The BLS said that the unemployment percentage for blacks has shown little change since early summer while the jobless rates for whites has been steadily going up.

The report also said the November rise occurred almost entirely among people previously holding full time jobs. The rate in this category increased from 5 to 5.5 per cent. The unemployment rate for part time workers remained unchanged at 8.1 per cent.

The November increase hit heaviest at young women in the 16 to 24 year old category who were seeking full-time jobs. The situation for adult men and teenagers was not significantly different than in October.

In advance of Nixon's speech tonight in New York, the White House made it plain he had no intention of following the advice of Democratic congressional leaders who urged a temporary freeze on price and wage increases to stem both inflation and unemployment.

Instead, Nixon is expected to stress in his speech to the National Association of Manufacturers the need for voluntary restraint by both management and labor to hold the line.

Bottle Garden: Unique Yule Gift Idea

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

Terrariums or bottle gardens make ideal Christmas gifts or presents any time of the year.

Select a fishbowl, candy jar, brandy snifter bottle, and jars of all sorts. Next step is to use a soil mixture containing large amounts of organic matter. Add about half peat moss by volume to good garden soil. To start the terrarium, first place a layer of broken flower pots or gravel in the bottom of the container. Add a small amount of charcoal to this. The gravel gives better drainage and the charcoal will prevent souring. Use green moss or commercial peat moss to line the container so drainage material will not be visible from the outside. NOTE: If you use moss, place it so that green side faces out.

If your container is large, plants can be added easily by hand. In small-necked containers long sticks or tweezers may be needed for planting. Try not to get soil on leaves; brush off any that covers them. Then after everything is in place, spray plants and soil lightly with water. Plants are not the only items of interest in a terrarium. Add small pieces of bark, moss-covered pieces of wood, rocks, sticks and many other articles. Some items for the woodland terrarium include rattlesnake plantain, partridgeberry, wintergreen, hepatica, wood violet, small ferns, mosses, evergreen seedlings—and even of lot of weed seedlings. Keep the terrarium in good light, but never in direct sun (burns plants). Cover the top to keep up humidity, and water only enough to keep the soil moist (never soggy).

PROTECT EVERGREENS: If you set out evergreens this fall or even last spring, it might be a good idea to protect them from drying winds. All evergreens lose water from leaves in winter. If the winds are hot and if the sun is bright, water is lost from the leaves faster than it can be replaced. Result: "Windburning," which is what winter killing really is. Evergreens do not die from cold, but from a loss of moisture. A mulch of peatmoss, sawdust, or anything available will help keep moisture in the soil and thus protect your plants. A burlap screen around the plants is helpful, or you can spray the evergreens with a material known as an anti-dessicant or anti-transpirant, available under several trade names. Spray top and bottom sides of leaves in December and again in February.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writes: "Are houseplants harmful in winter? I heard they take up oxygen. True?

Answer: House plants are beneficial and give off oxygen. At night they do use some oxygen, but the amount is so small you'd never miss it. House plants also give off moisture (and take up carbon dioxide) so you can see why they're good to have around the house.

Home Landscaping—The Finishing Touch

Many new houses have gone the way of the naked look.

You design the landscape (driveway and fence) to suit yourself. That's the builder's version.

The other version is that there's a 12-letter word — improvements—standing between you and new house enjoyment.

When you have finished dressing the barren grounds — bottom soiling, top soiling, draining, dredging, bulldozing, planning, planting, seeding — you may have a sizeable investment on your hands.

Landscaping has become a costly venture, less so for the mass-project builder than for the individual. But how many house buyers have it in their laps! A good job may cost as much as the down payment on your house.

Many good-size houses being built in development areas are sans even puny trees of the kind that formerly were stuck in the grounds of low-cost housing areas.

Take a good long look at the land—tiny or large—that goes with the house you want to buy. How much will it cost to finish it? Add that figure to the price of the house.

Study the topography and note whether there are extreme variations. If you have a long, sloping barren-looking hill down the back of the house, what will you do about it in addition to encouraging green growth? The first thought almost is to level a section for a terrace if there isn't one.

Is the house on landfill?

What are the chance of finding a pond on your front lawn some morning? Old maps town halls may reveal whether the base is solid, liquid or sand pit.)

Make a plan of the house and land and study books on the subject of landscaping. Observe other homes in the area and profit by their mistakes. How many trees, bushes and plants will give you a start to an attractive home? You'll need trees for shade as well as beauty.

You may be able to transplant some bushes or trees from your old house or from the yards of friends, but don't count on it. Transplanting is hard work, and if you plan to move a sizeable tree, it may be costly to hire someone to ball and burlap it, move it to its new location and transplant it. With experienced hands the tree should live, but the elements may be against you and your big cash outlay will be buried.

Some houses can look great with the bare minimum of inexpensive trees — those around the water and on slopes can provide charm. A pretty lawn and a few well-chosen bushes that flower at different times may be all that you'll need.

At the other extreme to house nudity you may admire a house set in the middle of forest-like growth which the builder is giving you the privilege of removing so that you can have the trees you want. Great. But you'll pay plenty for this privilege. The plot will thicken when you get estimates on tree removal (stumps and all).

Driveways can gobble up cash. If the builder is leaving the finishing-off to you, figure it into the total cost along with fencing that may be needed for charm and privacy. And you can't postpone fencing. A fence must be put up before you get to know neighbors so well that you are embarrassed about it. If you do it before you get acqquainted, they'll accept it as a planned venture. If you erect a fence after you move in, and perish the thought — after the children or dogs have had a fight—they'll think of it as a hate wall.

When you get all the "extra" figures together, you will get a clearer picture of the real cost of your house. It may be, as you thought in the beginning, "dirt" cheap—after all, that is all that you are getting with it.

Laird Sensitive on Pentagon Credibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since taking office nearly two years ago Secretary of Defens eMelvin R. Laird has been particularly sensitive about any doubts cast on the credibility of the Pentagon.

Laird periodically likes to remind newsmen of his efforts "to restore and maintain the credibility of this department." He cites the establishment of daily Pentagon news briefings and the abandonment of background briefings attributable only to unnamed sources in favor of his frequent on-the-record news conferences.

But, despite these efforts, the credibility issue is haunting the Defense Department, just as it did during the years of President Lyndon Johnson's administration.

Three cases stand out in which it appeared the Pentagon was saying one thing and doing another:

The U.S. bombing raids in Cambodia, the denial that U.S. ground combat troops were in Laos, and last week's disclosure of the dramatic commando raid near Hanoi.

When it was disclosed last spring that U.S. planes were hitting North Vietnamese and Viet Cong targets in Cambodia, congressional opponents of the war feared the new action represented deepening U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

But the Pentagon insisted the raids were being carried out only to cut off enemy troop concentrations and supply lines which spokesmen said threatened U.S. forces in South Vietnam.

It wasn't until newsmen in Cambodia witnessed U.S. planes flying support for Cambodian ground troops that the Pentagon acknowledged the air strikes were incidentally helping Cambodians.

As for U.S. troops in Laos, it has become common knowledge that some American forces are in that country, but the Pentagon refers to them as advisers and not "ground combat troops."

Laird acknowledged last week the reason he decided to tell of a daring but unsuccessful commando effort to rescue American prisoners of war was to avoid a credibility problem after the North Vietnamese accused the United States of bombing civilian targets in the Hanoi area.

In his initial explanation, Laird said only that Navy planes dropped flares along the North Vietnamese coast to divert the enemy's attention from the commando raid.

It wasn't until after President Nixon let word slip at a Thanksgiving Day dinner for wounded servicemen that the Pentagon confirmed U.S. fighter-bombers hit targets in the POW camp area.

So, as it has on several occasions throughout the Vietnam war, the Pentagon wound up confirming in part charges made by Hanoi.

Why didn't Laird tell the senators and the public about the air strikes?

"Now, I answer questions, but I only answer the questions that are asked . . . and that particular question was not asked," he told a news conference Monday. Otherwise, he added, "I think you'll find that I've been as forthright as one could possibly be in answering all questions."

ROME (UPI)—A painting by Titian sold for $224,000 at an art auction Thursday. The work by the 16th century Italian master was one of his two portraits of Venetian admiral Vincenzo Capello. The other is in a museum in Munich. The buyer asked not to be identified.

Official Visit Plans Listed by Rebekahs

SAUGERTIES

Arrangements for attending a reception for the official visit of the Rebekah Assembly president in Kingston on Dec. 9 were discussed at a recent meeting of Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge 34 held at Odd Fellows Temple, Saugerties. Noble Grand Florence Tompkins, presided.

Many of the members are planning to attend the official visit of assembly president, Elizabeth M. Lee. The meeting on Dec. 15 will start at 7:30 p.m. and at 8:30 p.m. the annual Christmas party will be held. Santa Claus will be there with gifts, candy canes and oranges for the children.

Noble Grand Tompkins announced that members should bring their children and grandchildren to the party. A Christmas tree and a program appropriate to the season will be part of the festivities. Each adult attending will bring a gift to exchange.

The Rebekah calendars are now being distributed to members of Queen Ulster. The Visiting Committee named include Alice Legg, Hannah Lewis the vice grand and noble grand.

Meeting will convene promptly at 7 p.m. The Third Degree will be conferred on a class of candidates and following the meeting refreshments will be served in the dining room. All Master Masons may attend.

Soviet-U.S. Radio War—New High in Static

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The second Soviet-American radio war, now more than two years old, has reached a new high in static between Moscow and Washington as transmitters of both countries jam each other's broadcasts.

The first radio war began after World War II, when the United States created the Voice of America as its official radio voice overseas.

Stalin did not approve, and the Soviet Union built immense transmitters that broadcast shrill noises on American frequencies to prevent the Soviet people from hearing Washington's side of the news.

The United States retaliated by putting one VOA broadcast on the same frequency used by Radio Moscow, jamming it out of Communist Eastern European states.

On June 19, 1963, the Soviet Union abruptly halted its jamming operations for no apparent reason. In August, 1968, when Soviet troops led an invasion of Czechoslovakia, the Russians resumed their jamming of VOA frequencies.

U.S. officials believed this was only a temporary expedient. But a year later it was still going on, so the Americans counterattacked by resuming VOA transmissions on a frequency of 173 kilohertz to interfere with Radio Moscow. And there the situation remains.

The million-kilowatt VOA transmitter in Munich, West Germany, overrides Radio Moscow broadcasts in Eastern Europe but not in the Soviet Union itself, where Radio Moscow's half-million-kilowatt transmission still holds sway.

The State Department has declared its willingness to take VOA off Radio Moscow's frequency if the Soviets would end their jamming, and has offered repeatedly to discuss the issue with the Russians.

The latest such offer was made in July, but the Soviets replied that jamming was an internal matter. The Communist party newspaper Pravda recently attacked U.S. Information Agency Director Frank Shakespeare, who oversees VOA, charging him with peddling anti-Soviet propaganda.

While the Americans interfere with only one Soviet frequency, the Russians have been jamming all 36 frequencies on which the Americans beam Ukrainian, Armenian, Georgian and Russian language broadcasts eastward.

The United States claims the Soviet jamming is illegal under the postwar Copenhagen Convention, which the Soviet Union signed. But it says its counter-broadcasts are not illegal because neither West Germany, where the transmitter is situated, nor the United States is a signatory.

The Soviet Union contends that as a sovereign state it has a right to control use of its air waves. It also maintains that western broadcasts, if they went unjammed, would give the Soviet people a distorted view of western ideas.

PEPPY HELPING — It seems a dog has to help his less fortunate friends so "Peppy", a toy collie, wheels a buggy load of home made bread to the bake sale. The recent sale in Zanesville, Ohio, was to raise money for the animal shelter. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Proposal Made By Kosygin Aid to Diplomatic Relations

When Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin made his surprise visit to Peking in September, 1969, he proposed to Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai they seek out areas where they might agree rather than those where they could not.

After a decade of deteriorating relations, in which war seemed a distinct likelihood, the Kosygin proposal has become the premise of their dealings with each other.

Late this month a new Chinese ambassador presented his credentials in Moscow after similar action by the Russians in Peking.

The two had withdrawn their ambassadors in 1966.

Other events in November included the signing of a new trade agreement between the two and a warmer than usual message from Peking to Moscow congratulating the Soviet Union on the 53rd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

It was not back to the good old days of 1959 when trade between the two came to more than $2 billion, nor was it back to early 1969 when bloody border clashes along their 5,000-mile borders brought relations to their lowest point.

It was shortly after the Kosygin visit that the two began their border talks which have been going on ever since.

The attempt to lower tensions has been apparent on both sides.

The Soviets have avoided criticism of the Chinese leadership and have voiced a desire both for improved relations with the Chinese government and with the Chinese people.

On the Chinese side, the more relaxed attitude toward the Soviets has been accompanied by a similar relation toward the world in general, with the United States the main exception.

Napanoch Fourth Highest

Area Correctional Facilities Cited for Farm Output

SYRACUSE — Several local and area state correctional facilities were accorded recognition for outstanding production of farm products at the annual conference and siminar for state institution farm managers held here today. The Correctional Facility at Napanoch and its farm manager Milford Misner and Edward Church, steward, were cited with a certificate of excellence in growing about 151 tons of high quality sweet corn which was made available to many other institutions.

Napanoch was also the fourth highest in the state with 391,709 pounds of vegetables raised and second highest with 38.9 per cent increase over last year in the production of pork.

In Coxsackie Correctional Facility, West Coxsackie, Arthur Gustavson, farm manager and Millard Noel, steward, received a certificate for excellence in growing apples and getting them marketed at other institutions. Approximately, 8,800 bushels were produced and marketed up to Nov. 1.

Catskill Reformatory with Misner, manager was fourth in the production of eggs with 25,335 dozen and Wallkill Prison with Ralph Carpenter, manager was fifth with 16,863 dozen. Wallkill had an annual average egg production per hen of 283.

Green Haven Prison in Dutchess with Ralph Lynam, manager was 4th highest in milk production, 1,077,911 lbs.

Woodbourne Prison with George Van Vleet was fourth in the highest annual average per cow with 14,600 pounds and the fourth highest of butter fat per cow with 522 pounds.

Wallkill Prison was second in the lowest in feed cost per hundredweight of milk production with $1.86.

Catskill Reformatory was third in the production of potatoes with 5,257 bushels.

The total value of farm production in state facilities was $1,692,282.74.

Misner of Napanoch was master of ceremonies at the banquet.

George R. Gilbert, director of the Bureau of State Institution Farms of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets, presented the merit awards to the farm managers.

$46,000 Science Grant for Vassar College

POUGHKEEPSIE — Vassar College has received a grant of $46,452 from the National Science Foundation for its third consecutive summer institute in historical geology.

The 1971 course, entitled "The Geological Evolution of Eastern North America: A Field Oriented Regional Approach to Historical Geology," will be given from July 5 through August 13. It is intended for 44 secondary school teachers of earth science and general science who have had at least six credits in geology. Each participant will receive a stipend and appropriate dependency and travel allowances.

Earth history will be studied through extensive field work in the Hudson Valley, the Adirondacks, central and western New York, eastern Pennsylvania and northern New Jersey. Because the course will not duplicate materials given in the seven Vassar College Summer Institutes in the Fundamentals of Geology, former participants in that program may apply.

Opportunities will be provided to allow each person to make his own mineral, rock, fossil or photographic slide collection if he desires.

Institute participants successfully completing the course will receive a certificate for six hours of graduate academic credit for transfer.

Members of the faculty are Dr. John H. Johnsen, professor of geology as director of the Institute, and Dr. G. Gordon Connally, professor of geology at Lafayette college in Easton, Penna. and after Jan. 1, 1971 visiting associate professor of geology at the State University of New York at Buffalo. In addition, there will be nine guest co-leaders in the field, including Dr. James F. Davis, State Geologist of New York.

Applications must be postmarked no later than March 1. Further information is available from Dr. John H. Johnsen at Vassar College 12601.

Hurley Rec Board Clarifies Three Points

HURLEY — The Hurley Recreation Association's Board of Directors made an announcement today clarifying three main points concerning the use of the park and membership in the organization:

According to the board of directors, the first and most important point is that the park is free for the use and enjoyment of all Hurley residents and their friends. The only exception is the swimming complex. Any one may use any of the other facilities including the picnic area, basketball court, ice skating rink, children's playground, softball field and pavilion. Some of these facilities are under construction and will be ready for spring.

The second point is that association membership dues are a dollar a year. Any resident of Hurley may join the organization. Membership in Hurley Rec entitles one to attend meetings, serve on committees and run for election to the board.

The third point covers the use of the pool. Anyone who desires to use the swimming pool must pay a "use fee" The fee is based on operational costs and improvements. A recommended fe is submitted to the membership by the board for their approval. At the last membership meeting in November the 1971 pool fees of $5 for families and $25 for single persons was adopted.

The board expressed the hope that those residents who do not choose to use the pool will not deny themselves or their families the enjoyment of the other facilities at the park.

Hurley Rec's goal has always been to "Provide as wide a variety of recreational programs and offer it free of charge to any resident regardless of race, creed, color or economic standing," board spokesman Donald Sweeney concluded.

Winter Program Of Recreation Set at Red Hook

NORTHERN DUTCHESS — The Red Hook winter recreation program will begin this weekend, and the Rhinebeck program is expected to get underway after Jan. 1.

Boys and girls in the Red Hook Central School District between the ages of 8-14 are invited to attend the first session Saturday from 2-4 p.m. It is the first of 15 consecutive weeks of play.

Boys 12-14 should report to the high school; between 8-11 to the Mill Road School; and all girls to Linden Avenue School. All should bring their sneakers.

Plans for the winter include games, sports, and perhaps skating and some skiing. Arts and crafts beginning in January are planned.

In Rhinebeck, the delay until after New Years Day is attributable to a lack of funds in the budget for 1970, according to Director Raymond White.

Skating and basketball are the main attractions, with the indoor rink at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds flooded and a basketball program at the high school.

The money needed is for recreation committee director and paid student help, as well as employes who flood the fairgrounds building.

Russo-American

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The 1971 track and field meet between the United States and Russia scheduled or July 7-8-9-10, has been offered to the 90,000-seat stadium of Stanford University, it was announced Thursday by the AAU.

"The Birth of Jazz" by ➸Arrow➸

The most colorful episode in our history was the roaring twenties, with the new sounds and the individuality of the early jazz bands. That same individuality is evident in the American scene right now, with today's new sounds and the sweeping return to the styles of the twenties. To keep in step with this trend get "The Birth of Jazz", an exciting all-male group of dress shirts from Arrow's Kent Collection . . . styled in the rugged image of the twenties . . . in the high fashion spirit of the soaring seventies. Fuller, longer point collars . . . torso flattering tapered styling . . . 2-button or wide french cuffs . . . bright stripes, dramatic solids . . . and always in care-free Perma-Iron fabrics.

Benedictine Volunteers Complete $100,000 Pledge

HEAD HOSPITAL AUXILIARY — Elected to serve the Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary during 1971 are (L-R) Mrs. Michael Diacovo, treasurer; Mrs. William Krum, second vice president; Mrs. Anthony Vicevich, first vice president; and Mrs. Mansoor Hakim, president. Outgoing president is Mrs. Edward Coppo. The new slate of officers were elected at the Auxiliary's annual tea on Wednesday, Dec. 2 in the auditorium of the Senior Citizens Residence. (Freeman photo by Haines).

The Benedictine Auxiliary has completed payment on its $100,000 pledge to the hospital's building fund. A final check was presented to the hospital administration at the group's annual Christmas Tea on Wednesday, Dec. 2. Outgoing president Mrs. Edward Coppo burned the Pledge Contract which helped build the Cardinal Spellman Wing.

It was a five-year project for the Auxiliary and presidents serving during that time in addition to Mrs. Coppo were Mrs. John McCardle, Mrs. Charles J. Turck, and Mrs. Henry C. Eichleman Jr. Accepting the check for the hospital were Sister M. Charles, administrator, and Gerard Nocton, assistant. Of the $100,000 pledged, $41,000 was raised during the past two years.

At its annual tea, the Auxiliary elected a new slate of officers for 1971 and welcomed 17 women into membership. Serving on the executive committee next year will be Mrs. Mansoor Hakim, president; Mrs. Anthony Vicevich, first vice president; Mrs. William Krum, second vice president; Mrs. Michael Diacovo, treasurer; Mrs. William Ryan, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Lewis M. Neporent, recording secretary. Also serving on the executive committee will be Mrs. Henry Thomas, Mrs. Knute Beichert and Mrs. Henry Bruck.

New members include the Mmes. William Egan, Keith Hall, Joseph B. Kearney 3rd, Jeri Loughlin, William Paulus, Joseph H. Pratten, Betty Schwab, Robert Sperl, Kay Williams, Joseph Nicklas, Raymond Schuler, James Gilpatric, Stephen Wedvik, Harriet Greenspan, Marge Flaesch, Dr. Maria Galang and Miss Marguerite Healy.

Mrs. Coppo credited a successful term as president to the work of Committee chairmen and Auxiliary members Serving with her were: Mrs. Anthony Vicevich, baby photos; Mrs. Dick Peters, Mrs. Frank Nadspal and Mrs. Donald Hobart, cheer committee; Mrs. Nicholas Radakovich, deck and escort; Mrs. Ray Davis, gift shop coordinator; Mrs. Peter Fisher, gift shop volunteers; Mrs. Adrian Lemon, Mrs. Richard Hoban, Mrs. Frank Campochiaro and Mrs. Paul Sullivan, gift buyers; Mrs. Mansoor Hakim and Mrs. John Nilsen, junior volunteers; Mrs. Charles Turck, membership; Mrs. Robert Gardiner, program; Mrs. William Krum, publicity; and the Mmes John Plass, Frank Nadspal, Rondal O'Neil, William Carp, refreshments; Mrs. Robert Stenson, cart volunteers.

Also: the Mmes. Paul Sullivan, Joseph Pechloff and Theodore Chamberland, cart buyers; Mrs. Warren Mann, Mrs. Nicholas Radakovich and Mrs. William Ryan, ways and means.

A vote of appreciation was extended to the press and radio for its coverage throughout the year and honorary life membership were awarded to Mary Margaret McBride and Mrs. Mary Loughran.

Sister M. Cerilla, who is planning a trip to Germany, received a gift from the Auxiliary in appreciation for her many hours of work in the gift shop.

The hospital will take on a holiday spirit when Chairmen Diane Palmer and Mary Myer complete their Christmas decorating.

Arrangements for a social hour were completed by Mrs. John A. Cooke Jr., and Mrs. Vincent Amatrano, assisted by the Mmes. Charles Gaffney, Frank Simpson, Arthur Davis, Douglas Masterson, Joseph Kearney Jr., John Sanglyn, J. Collins Troy, Martin Golden, James Rua and Bernadete Rahuffe.

Pouring were the Mmes. Edward Coppo, Mansoor Hakim, Henry Thomas, Maynard Burroughs, George Einterz and Ray Davis.

DeCormier Picks Local Vocalist For Lincoln Center Appearance

The New York Choral Society has announced that June Pauker, Hudson Valley soloist, was selected by audition as one of four new members to join the highly accaimed group of 140 voices. The first of the season concerts will be in Philharmonic Hall at Lincoln Center on Friday, Dec. 18 under the baton of Robert DeCormier.

On the program opening the 1970-71 season will be Voices for Today, Op. 75 by Britten; Beatus Vir, Psalm 111, a first New York performance, by Vivoldi; Missa Sancti Nicolai by Haydin, and the exciting Chichester Psalms by Leonard Bernstein.

Robert DeCormier, internationally renowned conductor, arranger and composer, was the conductor and arranger for Harry Belefonte and founded the Harry Belefonte Singers. He is the conductor for the newly formed Ed Sullivan Singers and enjoyed great success as the founder of the Robert DeCormier Singers.

Local laudiences will remember the enthusiastically received performances of the DeCormier Singers for the Community Concert series in Kingston. He delighted Broadway audiences with his choral arrangments for "The Happiest Girl in Town," "Milk and Honey," and "110 in the Shade." The Mormon Tabernacle Choir, the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia Orchestras have recorded arrangments by Mr. DeCormier.

The New York Choral Society has been established as a high calibre singing group for more than 12 years, doing recordings, concerts in Town Hall and Philharmonic Hall, and has appeared on National Educational Television Netowrk hour-long "Special" on the heritage of "Bach and Sons." This was featured in more than 80 cities in the United States.

Mrs. Pauker, since joining the group, has been singled out by Mr. DeCormier as one of a group of 40 voices from the Chorus to tour colleges and Universities. The first of these concerts will be at Cooper Union College Friday, Dec. 11.

A resident of Kingston, Mrs. Pauker is a protege of the late Hanus Schimmerling of Woodstock, former director of the Prague Opera House. She was first heard locally in a full-length recital of song in eight languages. Mrs. Pauker has made guest appearances on radio station WNYC in New York City and has been heard in lecture-recitals of Slavonic Music at the Austrian and Czechoslovakian Embassies in New York.

Season tickets for the series of concerts at Philharmonic Hall and single tickets may be obtained at the Philharmonic boxoffice or by contacting June Pauker.

Repeat Performances For Paltz Comedy

"Bell, Book and Candle" opened Thursday night in the New Paltz High School auditorium. Repeat performances will be given tonight and Saturday. Directed by Mrs. Pat Yaeger of New Paltz, the three-act comedy launches the amateur theatre group's ninth season of community theatre in New Paltz.

Leading roles are being played by Susan Kraat and Philip Livingston, also of New Paltz.

Mrs. Kraat's theatre experience includes major roles in summer stock productions of "Private Lives" and "The Marriage-Go-Round." Her last performance for NMOB was as "Clea" in "Black Comedy."

Mr. Livingston's background in "90-Miles" productions has been largely limited to technical services in connection with sets, lighting and sound effects. The role of "Shep Henderson" will be his first major part on stage. Mr. Livingston is associate director of Instructional Resources at State University College, New Paltz.

Mrs. Yaeger, past president and charter member of NMOB, participated extensively in all phases of theatre. She directed "Bus Stop" and "Barefoot in the Park" and had major roles in numerous productions, including "Pygmalion" and "Thurber's Carnival."

Curtain time for "Bell, Book and Candle" is 8:30 p.m. the door.

Democratic Women Plan Bus Trip

The Ulster County Democratic Women's Club will hold a bus trip to New York City on Saturday Dec. 12 The bus will leave the Trailways Bus Terminal at 8 a.m. for New York and will leave the Port of Authority at 8 p.m. for the return trip to Kingston.

This trip is open to the public and anyone wishing to go may call Mrs. Charles Cole, 72 Summer Street, or Mrs. Agnes Loughran, 36 Liberty Street, by Wednesday, Dec. 9.

St. Nicholas Day Observance

TRADITIONAL DUTCH PAGEANT portraying the story of Sinterklaas will be enacted Saturday beginning at 6 p. m. in the churchyard of the Old Dutch Church in Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. William Van Kleeck, pictured here in last year's presentation, will repeat their roles of the father and mother in the pageant. The story of the coming of Sinterklaas is enacted every year by members fo the Old Dutch Church. Saturday night, members of the congregation will follow the Dutch custom of the St. Nicholas Ride. The route of the ride will begin from Britt's parking lot, with a right turn to Clinton Avenue down to North Front Street and onto Fair Street, then from Fair to Main Street. In addition, for the first time, the Carol Choir will present a musical play which is also based on the St. Nicholas story and the Nativity story. Music is arranged from genuine Dutch folk songs and the narration by Jack Hill Jr., was compiled by Helen Kemp under the title, "Christmas in Holland." Friends in the Kingston area and community are invited to see and enjoy this presentation.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE

Dear Heloise:

Save those empty spools!

If you use seam-binding, bias tape, or the like, and always have some of it left over in your sewing basket, just wrap it on your empty spools.

I usually secure one end of the bias or binding to the spool with adhesive tape, then proceed to wind the ribbon around the spool and secure the other end by another piece of tape.

You can roll two different colors on the large spools, side by side, or use the large spools for the larger-type bindings.

Keeps your sewing basket neat, and the tape serves many useful purposes—bows for children's hair, ribbon for wrapping gifts, etc., not to mention your owr sewing needs.

Mrs. James Becker

After reading this I made a beeline for my sewing basket and tidied it up beautifully using your idea. It's terrific!

Maybe some of you gals have been doing this since Hector was a pup . . . but or those who haven't thought of it (like myself), it's a dandy!

Heloise

Letter of Thought

Dear Heloise:

Men may be better cooks, but while they're cooking they aren't thinking of the dishes and mess to clean up as we women do..because they usually don't clean up after themselves!

Dishpan Hands

How true; how true!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

We have a large family, so I bought a metal file box in which to keep records and important papers.

In this box each child has a manila file folder containing his or her birth certificate, baptismal record and health and immunization record—which I keep up to date of course.

I plan to give the children their files when they reach 21 so they'll have these important records available.

MRS. J.N.

Dear Heloise:

Nylon net is wonderful for cleaning wood paneling.

I placed a soft cloth (such as a worn-out diaper) inside the net. The cloth holds the the cleaning solution which the net cannot do. Do not use a coarsely knit cloth, as the net will then get stuck in the grooves of the paneling.

Thanks to the net, in less than an hour, two of us cleaned a 10'x14' paneled dining room that was badly spotted with milk and other foods.

State Booters Bow in NAIA Semifinals

DUNN, N.C. — New Paltz State booters were back in a familiar but unwanted role here Thursday.

The Hawks winners Wednesday of an NAIA quarterfinal game in which they were outplayed, were eliminated in the semi-finals by Davis and Elkins of West Virginia, 1-0. It was the fourth time this year New Paltz has lost by the one goal score each time despite having dominated the action.

New Paltz meets Campbell College of Buies Creek, N.C. for third place Saturday just prior to the championship contest between Davis and Elkins and Quincy College of Illinois, which won the tournament in 1966 and 1967.

Quincy College made its way to the championship finals by defeating Campbell College of Buies Creek, 4-1.

Campbell scored first in its match against Quincy but Quincy soon tied it at 1-1. Ed Mundo Comasho followed with two goals and Al Hartke made a third to give Quincy a 4-1 lead.

In the consolation bracket, Ottawa, Kansas College and Westmount of Santa Barbara, Calif. were the winners.

"I'm terribly disappointed," Hawk Coach Bob Durkin said after the defeat. "It was the most outstanding game of the tournament."

The crowd of some 6,000, most eagerly awaiting the chance to see hometown Campbell play Quincy in the nightcap, was treated to quite a contest. Before long the gathering started to get behind the New York team as it sensed New Paltz was playing a special game. At the end the Hawks received a standing ovation.

Davis and Elkins, a team full of foreign born players, had entered the semis after winning another 1-0 match, that one against New Haven College in eight overtimes, an NAIA record. When Thursday's contest stayed scoreless for three quarters and well into the fourth, it looked like extra sessions would again be the order of the day. But as was the case against New Haven, a Nigerian by the name of Mike Udofia ended the suspense.

Udolthia pounced on a mixup in front of the NP cage to boot one by goalie Bob Sanborn at 18:43. Davis and Elkins had crossed the ball in front where several players from both sides went after it. Udolthia was first to put any authority behind a kick and the result was a goal.

Durkin could only find good things to say about his team's performance: "Everyone played above their game," he observed, "it was a superior effort." Several New Paltz players cried after the loss.

New Paltz was missing high scoring Elliott Pobbi-Asare, still home solving personal problems, and his absence was evident in the depleted and eventually non-existant scoring punch.

Hawk goalie Sanborn once again played well but he was matched and then some by the All-American Bill Nuttall at the other end of the field.

The best New Paltz can now do is thirrd, no bad for a school with a next to nothing sports reputation, but it's what might have been that makes Hawk fans wonder.

Durkin put it best when he said: "When I die my epitath should be 'Coach Bob Durkin, 1-0.'"

SIDEBARS: In consolation games, Ottawa, loser to New Paltz in the first round, topped New Haven, 3-0, the same score that Westmont beat Earlham. Ottawa will play Westmont for fifth place while New Haven takes on Earlham for seventh in other encounters Saturday.

Dolphins Shatter 'Garden Jinx'

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The "Garden jitters" most assuredly did not affect Artis Gilmore and his Jacksonville teammates.

Tom Wasdin, the Dolphins' first-year coach, thought his team might be a "flop" at New York's Madison Square Garden. All Jacksonville did was rip up the arena scoring records en route to a 152-106 victory over St. Peter's Thursday night.

Jacksonville's point-output tied the pro mark and easily eclipsed the college record for Madison Square Garden. The previous high for a college game was 122 points set by New York University against Syracuse in 1961.

Gilmore, Jacksonville's 7-foot-2 center, broke a regular season rebounding mark when he took down 34 against the outmanned Peacocks, whose tallest starter was 6-6.

Ernie Fleming had 30 points. Harold Fox 29 and Gilmore 28 as the Dolphins rolled to their second consecutive victory. Jacksonville has scored 284 points in its two triumphs.

"I thought we were kind of ragged," said Wasdin. "We can play better defense than we did tonight. But I guess when you put two running teams together, it's easy to vive things up."

Wasdin confessed he had laid it on a little more heavily than usual because of the Garden atmosphere. "This was our first time in New York City and if you gonna show them off, this is the place to do it. This is a well-balanced team as I've seen in any college and I feel we're one of the best in the country.

"If it had been any other place, I would have taken Artis out. But I wanted him to go all the way in the Garden. I'm proud of my boys," said Wasdin. "A lot of good teams come into New York and flop. We didn't."

Pat McFarland had 21 points to lead St. Joseph's (Pa.) to a 71-67 victory over Manhattan in the opener of the doubleheader.

Tom Owens and Tom Riker combined for 51 points to lead second-ranked South Carolina to an 86-69 victory over Auburn. Cwens had 28 points and Riker 23, while John Roche added 17. John Mengelt led Auburn with 16.

In other games involving top-ranked teams, Western Kentucky (No. 8) downed Old Dominion 96-82, tenth-ranked Southern California beat Utah (No. 16) 90-81 and Florida State (No. 14) ripped Biscayne 106-70.

"We were very lucky to win," said Frank McGuiren coach of the South Carolina team. "I was pleased by the way all my kids played." The Gamecocks, ranked second behind UCLA, meet Notre Dame Saturday night while the top-ranked Bruins open tonight against Baylor.

Tom Owens scored 28 points and got 16 rebounds and Roche put in 17 points and added five assists. Tom Riker added 23 points and 16 rebounds to the Gamecocks' cause.

South Carolina was picked No. 1 in the AP's per-season poll last year and lived up to its rave notices most of the year. The heavily favored Gamecocks won the ACC regular season race, but lost to North Carolina State when Roche got hurt in the final.

Jim Rose had 20 points and Jim McDaniel 19 as Western Kentucky coasted past Old Dominion while Dennis Layton had 21 points and Paul Westphal 17 in Southern Cal's triumph over Utah. Vernell Ellzy's 35 points helped Florida State record its easy victory over Biscayne.

Backus Registers TKO Over Napoles

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Five years ago Billy Backus couldn't win in the ring, so he quit and went to black topping roads. Today he's the welterweight boxing champion of the world.

"I felt it wasn't my business," Backus said Thursday night after scoring a stunning upset by stopping Jose Napoles at one minute of the fourth round of a scheduled 15-rounder on a badly cut left eye lid.

"Is it Christmas?" said the 27-year-old Backus. "I guess it is. Boy, it's here."

Before the fight, in which he was given little chance to beat Napoles, considered by some experts as the best fighter in the world, Backus had said that fighting for the title was like "Christmas coming early for a little kid."

Backus said another reason he had quit fighting in 1965, besides the fact he had lost three straight, was "I wasn't in shape. It's a full time business and now I realize it."

Since returning to boxing in 1967 he has held no outside job and his record has been 22-3-1 for an over-all record of 29-10-4.

Backus, a left-hander from nearby Canastota, the same town that produced his uncle, Carmen Basilio, the former welter and middleweight world champion, let it be known right from the start that he intended to carry the fight to the 30-year-old Napoles who was making his fourth title defense and had lost only four times against 59 victories that included 42 knockouts.

But at the beginning it appeared the challenger's bulling tactics were doomed as the cool, methodical Napoles speared him with left jabs and hooks.

Napoles had the best of the first round. He also controlled the second round when he opened a cut over Backus' right eye. However, Napoles also suffered a cut over the right eye and later contended he was butted. Backus admitted it could have been a butt.

Napoles continued to pepper away with his jab early in the third round. Then the fight changed from the challenger's bull like rushes and Napoles' matador tactics into a pier six brawl.

For the last two minutes of the round the fighters traded punches and Napoles went to his corner with blood streaming from a cut on his left eye lid. He again said "butt".

However, this time Backus said it was his right hooks which opened the cut.

The fourth round started as the third had ended and then with a minute gone referee Jack Milicich stopped it and the former road worker was a champion of the world.

Backus' immediate plans were to rest for a few days. He did not know about his next fight, but he did know he would have something to say about the financial terms. His 18 per cent of the net for the Napoles fight could come to nothing.

A crowd of about 5,500 attended and there was also some revenue from a Mutual radio network broadcast, television to Mexico and closed circuit telecasts to Los Angeles, Chicago, San Antonio, Tex. and El Paso, Tex.

Napoles, who weighed 144¼, was guaranteed $60,000. Backus weighted 145½.

Ferraro to Receive Page One Award

KINGSTON

Mike Ferraro of Kingston, the International League All Star third baseman for the past three years, has been named recipient of the Kingston Newspaper Guild's 1970 Page One Award in Sports.

Ferraro will be honored with other Page One Award winners in the fields of journalism, labor, music and community service on Saturday, Dec. 12, at the Guild's Page One Dinner at Deanie's in Woodstock.

A Kingston High School graduate, Ferraro was signed by the New York Yankee organization and made his major league debut at third base for the Yankees in late 1967. At that time he was the first Kingston-born player to advance to the major leagues since Bernard A. (Bud) Culloton was signed by the Pittsburgh Pirates in the late 1920's.

MIKE FERRARO

Ferraro, rated as one of the finest fielding third basemen in all of organized baseball, has been the International League's All Star third baseman for the past three years. He is currently the property of the Baltimore Orioles and played the last two seasons with the Rochester Red Wings of the International League.

Following an abortive attempt to win the Yankee third post in 1967, Ferraro was shipped to the Yankees' IL farm team at Syracuse. The next spring he reported to the Yankee training camp in Florida and played so well he was voted the James P. Dawson Award, given annually to the Yankees' top rookie performer in spring training.

After starting the 1968 season at third base for the Yankees, Ferraro managed only a .145 batting average in 13 games and lost the job to Bobby Cox.

After the Yankees exhausted their options on Ferraro, he was drafted by the Seattle Pilots expansion club. But despite a good spring training, he never got to start a game with the Pilots.

When Seattle shipped him down to Vancouver, its Pacific Coast League outlet, Ferraro refused to report and threatened to retire from baseball. His contract was purchased by the Baltimore Orioles, however, and he was assigned to Rochester as one of the highest paid minor league players in the country.

Farraro, still hoping for another chance at major league play, had his best season in five years in 1969. He batted .305, knocked in 69 runs, his 6 homers and 26 doubles for the Red Wings. Baltimore officials said recently that offers for Mike had been made by other major league teams but that a "suitable deal" had not been worked out.

In addition to baseball, Ferraro was an outstanding basketball player at Kingston.

"The Guild selections committee are happy to honor Mike Ferraro," said Guild president Charles J. Tiano. "Not only is he Kingston's first major leaguer in more than four decades, but he is the only local player ever to perform so brilliantly in Triple A baseball. We think he richly deserves the award."

Members of the Guild Page One Awards committee were Dorothy Narel, Tobie Geertsema, Ed Palladino, Henry Eighmey and Tiano. Names of other winners will be announced.

The Page One Dinner is open to the public and tickets may be purchased from any member of the committee.

Vikings - Bears, Question of Quarterbacks

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Minnesota Vikings' Coach Bud Grant says it takes more than a quarterback to win a football game, and the outcome of Saturday's Minnesota-Chicago Bears' National Football Conference clash will not rest solely on the shoulders of Bob Lee.

The Vikings said Thursday that quarterback Gary Cuozzo's sprained right ankle would keep him from starting against Chicago, and Lee, the only remaining regular Viking quarterback, planned to call signals.

Rookie quarterback Bill Cappleman was to be activated from the taxi squad for the nationally televised game (CBS, 1:15 p.m., EST).

If the Vikings do win, they will clinch a spot in the NFC playoffs Dec. 26-27 with their third straight Central Division title.

Grant played down the role of the quarterback in Saturday's game.

"Lee isn't going to win the game or lose it," Grant said. "The rest of the team will. Lee has been preparing all year for this and we expect him to do well.

"But I want to emphasize one point. Quarterbacks don't win the ball game."

The Bears face the same disadvantage that they had when they lost to Minnesota 24-0 earlier in the season. They are the only team which has had to face the Vikings, 9-2, immediately after a Minnesota loss.

The Vikings will be attempting to improve on last Sunday's performance when they were downed 20-10 by the New York Jets.

The Detroit Lions are two games back in the Central Division behind Minnesota, and also are in the running for the playoffs. If the Lions, 7-4, lose to St. Louis, 8-2-1, Sunday, the Vikings would clinch a playoff spot.

Also Sunday, Oakland, is at New York; Denver takes on Kansas City; Cincinnati invades San Diego; Washington is at Dallas; Buffalo meets the New York Giants; New Orleans plays at Los Angeles; Boston is at Miami; Atlanta travels to San Francisco; Philadelphia is at Baltimore, and Green Bay invades Pittsburgh.

In Monday night's nationally televised game, Cleveland meets Houston in the Astrodome.

Baseball Rewards Its Heroes, But Old Emmett Takes a Walk

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Baseball, regally attired in a plush Hollywood setting on the final night of its winter meetings, will be somewhat poorer next spring without Emmett Ashford calling 'em as he sees 'em.

The bouncy, 56-year-old umpire, first black man ever to call balls and strikes in the major leagues, bowed out Thursday after five turbulent seasons.

His retirement announcement came several hours before Cincinnati's Johnny Bench, St. Louis' Bob Gibson and San Francisco's Willie Mays received top honors at baseball's inaugural national awards banquet in a swank Beverly Hills hotel.

Bench, the major league slugging king last season, was named player of the year. Gibson, a 23-game winner for the Cardinals, captured 1970 pitching laurels. Mays, the Giants' 39-year-old superstar, was selected as the player who best typifies the game on and off the field.

Other award winners included third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore's world champions, named defensive player of the year, Pittsburgh's Danny Murtaugh, named manager of the year and Orioles' front office chief Harry Dalton, cited as executive of the year.

Ashford, who reached the normal retirement age for American League umpires a year ago, announced he was stepping out "with a great deal of reluctance" after 20 years on the job —the first 15 of them in the minors.

AL President Joe Cronin, who brought Ashford up from the Pacific Coast League in 1966, denied that pressure had been put on the ebullient showman to retire. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn hinted that he would offer Ashford a job in his office.

Ashford, who worked the World Series for the first time this year, insisted he merely wanted to "depart on top."

"Trying to top the exceptionally good year and the thrilling events of the 1970 World Series would be superfluous and anticlimactic," he said. "I had a fantastic year. Nobody even questioned my ancestry."

"He wasn't pushed out," Cronin said. "Last year he was over 55 but we invited him back.

"He certainly has been a credit to baseball and contributed greatly to it. I'm indebted to him."

Ashford, a stocky 5-foot-7 Californian, said he was deeply grateful to Cronin for giving him his big chance. "You can't give him enough credit," he said. "In every league I worked in, the president has been on the spot and I've had to get him off—by working."

Ashford did his job with a flourish, and his antics behind the plate and on the bases delighted the fans.

"I've toned down on that stuff the last two years," he said. "I think I was taking a little away from the players."

He said he was disappointed at first that there were no other black umpires in the majors.

"The thing was a long time coming," he said, "but it took the covered wagons a while to cross the plains.

"Now I'm very happy, because we have about half a dozen black umpires on the way up."

Ashford will receive a pension of only $1,600 per-year for his five-year stint in the big leagues. He intends to stay active, hopefully within baseball.

Trading was at a standstill Thursday as club officials wound up an informal joint meeting and then broke up for league sessions. The meetings were to wind up today after another joint session.

In the lone player deal of the day, the New York Yankees sent outfielder Bill Robinson from their Syracuse club in the International League to the Chicago White Sox' Tucson, PCL, farm in exchange for pitcher Barry Moore.

Just Old Routine Oscar For Lew and

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lew Alcindor and Oscar Robertson did just what they were expected to do—score the most points and the clutch points for the Milwaukee Bucks.

Between them they split 44 points Thursday night and teamed for seven down the stretch that provided the Bucks with a 107-100 victory over the Chicago Bulls in the only National Basketball Association game Thursday night.

In the American Basketball Association, the New York Nets stopped the Memphis Pros 98-87. Denver beat Virginia 124-111 and Carolina beat the Floridians 124-114.

Chicago led most of the way until Robertson, directing a fourth quarter rally, hit a 20-foot jumper for a tie at 83 with 8:51 left in the game. With the Bulls trailing 95-94, Robertson and Alcindor went on their final spree that wrapped up the victory.

Sonny Dove hit 5 points in the first half as the Nets took a 53-47 halftime lead, and then when the Pros pulled within 85-79, Dove added six more points to insure the victory.

It's Texas - Arkansas

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Orange and Cottor Bowl officials are standing by with bids in hand. The pollsters are waiting aniouxsly with ballots. President Nixon might even be poised by his telephone. It's Texas and Arkansas again.

For the third time in three years, the Longhorns and the Razorbacks meet for the Southwest Conference title and the honor of being the host team in the Cotton Bowl, and for the second straight year, the game comes on the final weekend of the college football regular season.

Texas has won both those games, 39-29 in 1968 and 15-14 in last year's thriller, when President Nixon visited the Texas dressing room after the game with congratulations. Since then, the President has telephoned his congratulations.

The second victory also kept the Longhorns No. 1 in the country, an honor they protected with a victory over Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl. Texas, with a 29-game winning streak, the nation's longest, is ranked No. 1 again entering this game, with Arkansas, 9-1, not far back at No. 4.

Arkansas, 9-1, not far back at Bowl after losing to Texas last year, but this time the loser might get shut out, a fact both coaches knew when they let television re-schedule the game to the last weekend of the season.

The loser might have a shot at the Orange Bowl, but Louisiana State, No. 8, has that wrapped up if the Tigers can get by 16th-ranked Mississippi in their drag out battle Saturday night in Baton Rouge, La.

LSU rules a solid favorite with Ole Miss quarterback Archie Manning still questionable as attempts still are being made to find some type of protective device for his broken arm. Manning has not played since he suffered the injury Nov. 7.

The Texas-Arkansas affair will be televised nationally in the afternoon from Austin, Tex., with the LSU-Mississippi game televised to 85 per cent of the country that night.

Two other teams in the Top Ten also will be in action with No. 5 Tennessee playing host to UCLA in the other day game and unbeaten No. 9 Arizona State traveling to rival Arizona at night. Both are heavy favorites.

In two other night games, Houston plays at Miami, Fla., and North Texas State is at Tulsa.

Both Texas and Arkansas have their fingers crossed on the availability of their star running backs. Fullback Steve Worster of the Longhorns, the key man in their wishbone-T offense, suffered a hip pointer against Texas A&M Thanksgiving Day and has been slow recovering.

Arkansas' Bill Burnett suffered a shoulder separation against Texas A&M earlier and underwent surgery, which was expected to end the college career of the leading scorer in conference history. But Burnett was working out this week in pads, and was listed as doubtful.

UCAL Opener On Tap Tonight

KINGSTON

Three Ulster County Athletic League (UCAL) openers and Ulster Community's debut against Wesley of New Jersey in the Nassau Invitational Tournament highlight tonight's basketball schedule.

Kingston High and Rondout Valley Central, two area powers are idle.

The UCAL pairings are: Marlboro at Onteora; Highland at Wallkill and Pine Bush at New Paltz. Marlboro defeated Red Hook, 64-38, and OCS topped Margaretville, 66-63 in their openers. Pine Bush was idle Tuesday, while New Paltz was bowing to Ellenville, 71-56.

Ellenville is at John Coleman High to help open the Statesmen's slate. Saugerties High, which felt the wrath of Rondout, 67--51, travels to Beacon for a Dutchess County Scholastic League (DCSL) opener.

In other Dutchess county action, Cardinal Farley visits Oakwood; Rhinebeck is at Pine Plains and Red Hook hosts Pawling.

Albany State, with Werner Kolln of Kingston in the lineup, faces one of its toughest opponents—Stony Brook—in a road game.

New Paltz State, under new coach Si Pesavento, goes to New York City for a meeting with Cathedral College, A new Metropolitan school.

First NHL Win For MacNiel

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Al MacNeil admitted to some nervousness, but the only shaking he did in his debut as a coach in the National Hockey League was shaking hands after his first NHL coaching victory.

After taking over the Montreal reins earlier in the day when Claude Ruel resigned, MacNeil had a good time watching the Canadiens swamp the St. Louis Blues 6-3 Thursday night.

"I probably extended his injury by shaking hands so enthusiastically," he said after right winger Yvan Cournoyer, out with an injured wrist, was the first to congratulate the new coach after the game.

"But any time you score six goals against a good defensive team like St. Louis you have to be happy."

Frank Mahovlich, scoring his 400th goal, also had something to be happy about, but not his Detroit Red Wings, who blew three leads and wound up with a 4-4 tie against the Los Angeles Kings

In the only other game, Boston had to settle for a 4-4 draw against the last place Buffalo Sabres, but the point gave the Bruins sole possession of first place in the East Division with 33 points.

Pete Mahovlich scored twice for Montreal, which broke open the game with three goals in the final period.

After Los Angeles overcame a 1-0 deficit for a 2-1 lead, Mahovlich became only the sixth player to score 400 NHL goals, and tied the count. Don Luce put the Wings ahead 11 seconds later, but the Kings came back two more times, the final one on Larry Cahan's shot at 12:10 of the second period.

Boston, pulling ahead of idle New York by one point, came from behind on goals by Fred Stanfield at 12:38 of the third period and Ken Hodge on a 50-foot slap shot with 1:09 left in the game. Before that the Bruins had blown a 2-0 lead when the Sabres scored four consecutive goals.

Hartwick Out

Hartwick College of Oneonta lost its bid for the national soccer championship Thursday, when the Dragons lost to the nation's No. 1 rated team—St. Louis University—1-0—in the semi-finals of the NCAA championships at Edwardsville, Ill.

The Billikens, ranked No. 1 just ahead of Hartwick and unbeaten in their last 29 games, will try for their eighth title in 12 years in the finals Saturday against UCLA. The Pacific Coast booters moved into the finals with a 4-3 victory over Howard University in a game played before St. Louis-Hartwick.

Senior All-American Al Trost set up Mike Seerey's winning fourth-quarter goal for the Billikens. Trost carried the ball past three Hartwick defenders and took a shot, which was stopped by Hartwick goalie Norm Wingert. Seerey, charging in on the left side, caught the rebound and snapped the ball past Wingert at 9:08 of the final quarter.

The Bills, who go into the final game with a season record of 14-0-1, have dominated the college game since the NCAA began varsity competition 11 years ago.

After Oscar — What's Next for Clay

CASSIUS CLAY——THE ANGRY MAN

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Muhammad Ali is training for a return to Madison Square Garden, his lawyers are preparing for a court battle which could be his last big fight for a while.

It has been nearly 3½ years since Ali, born Cassius Clay, was convicted of refusing induction into the armed services. The long struggle that followed has kept him out of jail so far, but until last October it had kept him out of the boxing ring as well.

Ali continues his return to boxing Monday night in the Garden against Oscar Bonavena.

His legal fight is back before the Supreme Court, which is deciding whether to hear yet another appeal. A negative decision at this point could cut short Ali's ring comeback.

A decision is not expected before January.

The long delay between conviction and a final decision has raised howls of protest from war hawks, veterans groups and others who complain it shouldn't take so long to go to jail.

Lawyers on both sides of the case hotly deny any charges that the system of judicial reckoning has been soft on Ali who gave up his heavyweight boxing crown rather than fight with a gun.

Justice Department officials here merely point to the chronology of litigation when asked why Ali is still free so long after his sentencing.

The full appellate process runs for years for any defendant who can afford to pursue it.

Even after 3½ years, time is critical since promoters already envision a $7 million championship bout between Ali and heavyweight titleholder Joe Frazier early next year.

Ali, unbeaten in a glamourous boxing career, was reigning champ when he stepped into the judicial ring by refusing to take the traditional step forward April 28, 1967, at the Houston Armed Forces Induction Center.

He said he was a conscientious objector to the war and a Black Muslim minister and should have been granted exemption on either ground from 1A draft status.

Indicted May 5, 1967, Ali was convicted the following month by an all-white jury of six men and six women who deliberated only 2 minutes. The trial lasted less than two days and included only five hours of testimony by eight witnesses. Ali did not testify.

"I'm going to impose the maximum sentence," U.S. Dist. Court Judge Joe Ingraham announced on June 20, 1967, and then slapped Ali with a $10,000 fine and a five-year prison sentence.

But Ali has remained free under $5,000 bond while his lawyers threaded the long and complicated paths of appeal, rehearing and appeal again.

One year after his conviction, Ali's case reached the Supreme Court for the first time. It was remanded to the district court in Houston after the government admitted it had monitored conversations in which Ali had participated.

The monitoring had been done by FBI agents who had the late Dr. Martin Luther King, civil rights leader, and various Black Muslim officials under electronic surveillance.

In a Houston hearing to determine whether the wiretapping was unlawful and had tainted the conviction, Ingraham ruled that four summaries of monitored conversations "could not have had any bearing on the defendant's conviction ...."

But Ingraham disclosed the contents of only four of five such wiretap logs. The court looked at the fifth but kept its contents secret because Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said in an affidavit that disclosures "would prejudice the national interest."

Ali's lawyers fashioned a new appeal claiming "his right to disclosure of the log of the fifth surveillance cannot be concluded by the government's claim of privilege without, at a minimum, an independent judicial determination that ... disclosure of the log to him would substantially injure national security interests."

However, the biggest issue in Ali's appeal is a challenge to the legal authority of the attorney general to use electronic surveillance in national security cases without prior permission of the courts.

Thus, Ali's case becomes more than the appeal of a celebrated boxer and draft resister. This is the first time the Supreme Court has been asked to determine whether court permission is needed for electronic surveillance, just as a warrant is needed before a home can be searched.

A clear high court answer to this question would be a legal landmark — going far beyond Ali's appeal—to determine numerous other cases hinging on evidence gathered by electronic snooping.

Should the court refuse to hear the appeal, Ali likely would go quickly to jail. The probable legal action would be to seek a reduction of the sentence, but Ali most likely would not remain free during this phase.

If the court grants the hearing but then rules against Ali after oral arguments sometime in the spring, the result would be the same.

However, if the court upholds either of Clay's major arguments, chances are he would go free.

By any course, some kind of determination seems likely in the not-too-distant future. Meanwhile, Ali estimates his extra ring fight has cost him $10 million he could have earned boxing.

"Many people say they don't mind getting involved," Ali said after being sentenced for the second time, "but when it comes to losing their wealth or position in life they don't want to."

Ali saw quickly how involved he was. He was stripped of his boxing title. He was forbidden by the state boxing commissions to fight, and the federal courts refused to let him fight outside the country.

Finally, Ali got a license to fight Oct. 26 in Atlanta where he disposed of Jerry Quarry in three rounds. His scheduled bout with Bonavena Monday could be a return to paradise or the end of the road—regardless of what happens in the ring.

KHS Swimmers Planning Suitable Encore

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON

What do you do to follow up a championship season? That's the question Coach Ron Gabriele will try to answer when his Kingston High School swimmers open the '70-'71 aqua campaign Dec. 11 at Warwick.

Coming off an 8-3 year that included the DUSO crown, Kingston is minus several big stars, most notable being Craig Murray, who displayed his talents in the freestyle, backstroke, butterfly, and breaststroke events.

But returning to the Maroon fold are eight lettermen who Gabriele considers to be "good, quality swimmers."

Leading Kingston into the pool will be Mike O'Hara, a senior who holds the school record for the 100 yard backstroke and most points scored in a season.

"Mike's a fiery competitor who pushes himself to the limit in workouts," Gabriele says. "He's very aggressive in the water and can't stand to lose."

O'Hara figures to step into Murray's old spot, the 200 yard individual medley, as well as his own specialty, the backstroke.

Senior Fred Robinson, holder of the KHS mark for the 400 yard freestyle is also back. Gabriele feels that "Robbie is probably the best freestyler in section nine right now."

Big Alan DeForest, 5'11", 210 pound strong boy, will be doing the bulk of his swimming in freestyle events. A hard worker, DeForest picked up several key points in the Kingston victory over Newburgh for the league title.

Dave Brinnier is in charge of the tough butterfly event. A member of the record setting medley relay team at KHS, Brinnier is a senior.

Larry Pizik is a senior freestyler who, says Gabriele, "achieved the dream of all freestylers last season by breaking the minute and staying under it."

Juniors Brandon Jones, Dennis Roth, and Jim Gogg are also returnees. Jones will participate in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events and the 400 yard freestyle relay. Roth is another Maroon freestyler, while Gogg, O'Hara's backup man in the backstroke last year, will enter free style races this season.

The area where Kingston seems to be hurting the most is off the diving board. The loss of Brian Williams and Mark Ohlson to graduation has left a hole in this key department. Trying to fill it will be sophomore Tom Lonergan.

Other sophs expected to help are Gerald Gorman, the footballer who will swim the breaststroke; Richard Stuven, a butterfly artist; Mike Kwasnowski, a back and breaststroker; and Mike Arnold, capable of swimming all four strokes.

The rookie crop is made interesting because of the appearance of a budding phenom in John Edwards and the addition of three females to the roster.

The word on Edwards is that he may approach the rookie success of Murray. "If he is only half that good, he will provide some crucial assistance," Gabriele points out.

Sue Helmrich leads the trio of girls on the varsity. A soph, Helmrich is expected to be O'Hara's partner in the backstroke. The other young ladies on the team are Mary Ann Naccarato and Diane Davis.

Also on the Maroon aqua team are junior Charles Lang and freshmen Burt Davis, Mark Davis, Mark Sullivan, and Daniel Galyon.

Gabriele says that defending the DUSO championship is the primary goal. "It won't be easy," he predicts, "Newburgh, our top challenger last season has lost some freestyle strength, but we still expect them to be as strong as ever."

He also sees Fallsburg as being rough, though their recent loss to Lourdes, a first year team, surprised him.

"If all of our kids put it together and we get some help from one or two of the newcomers, we could have an exciting season," the Kingston coach says. "The kids are really optimistic and 'up' for the season, we've got a tough schedule and anything can happen, we hope it happens for the best."

The schedule:

STATE OF NEW YORK
COUNTY COURT:
ULSTER COUNTY

JAMES A. VOLKER, JEAN ANN VOLKER, his wife and EDITH VAN AKEN, Plaintiffs,
— against —
HAZEL STOWELL, if living, and if she be dead, her respective heirs at law, next of kin, distributees, executors, administrators, trustees, devisees, legatees, assignors, lienors, creditors, and successors in interest and generally all persons having or claiming under, by, or through said defendants who may be deceased, by purchase, inheritance, lien or otherwise of any right, title or interest in or to the premises described in the complaint herein, and the respective husbands, wives or widows of her if any, all of whose names are unknown to plaintiffs,
Defendant.

TO THE ABOVE NAMED DEFENDANTS:

YOU ARE HEREBY SUMMONED to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer, or if the complaint is not served with this summons, to serve a notice of appearance on the plaintiffs' attorneys within 20 days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, or within 30 days after completion of service where service is made in other manner than by personal delivery within the State. In case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated: November 2, 1970
TO THE ABOVE NAMED DEFENDANTS:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of Hon. Arthur A. Davis, a justice of the County Court, Ulster County, of the State of New York, signed the 27th day of October, 1970, at Kingston, New York, and filed on the 10th day of November, 1970, with the complaint in the office of the clerk of the County of Ulster at the County Clerk's Office in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York.

The object of this action is to compel a determination of any claims adverse to the plaintiff in the premises described below pursuant to Article 15 of the Real Property Actions and Proceedings Law.

The property in question is described as follows:

PARCEL 1

ALL THAT CERTAIN PARCEL OF LAND lying and being in the Town of Marbletown, County of Ulster and State of New York, BEGINNING at a pipe set in the road known as Chestnut Hill Road, said point being 175 feet northwesterly from a pipe in front of a stone house now owned by the parties of the first part and running north 10 degrees west along said Town Road 300 feet to a pipe; thence north 79 feet to a pipe set in a stone wall; thence east 11 degrees south 170 feet to a pipe; thence east 53 degrees south 78 feet to a pipe; thence south 10 degrees west 100 feet to a pipe; thence south 25 degrees west 115 feet to a pipe; thence south 60 degrees west 110 feet to the point or place of beginning.

Being the same premises as was conveyed to Arie Van Ryn and Bets Van Ryn, by Bastian Schalwyck and Christina Schalwyck, by deed dated November 13, 1964, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 1159 at page 957.

Being the same premises as conveyed by Arie Van Ryn, and Bets Van Ryn, to James A. Volker and Jean Ann Volker, his wife, by deed dated April 7th, 1966 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 1180 of Deeds at page 631.

PARCEL 2

AND ALSO, ALL THAT CERTAIN PARCEL OF LAND, lying and being in the Town of Marbletown, County of Ulster and State of New York, BEGINNING at a point 556 feet from a stake set in the ground at a stone wall on the east side of Chestnut Hill Road; thence north 1132 feet to a stake set in the ground also on the east side of Chestnut Hill Road; thence in an easterly direction 463 feet to a stake; thence in a southerly direction 1132 feet to a stake; thence west 500 feet to the point or place of beginning, containing 15 acres more or less.

Being a portion of the premises conveyed to the parties of the first part by Anton Heimisch and Charlotte Heimisch, his wife, by deed dated November 16th, 1946, and recorded in the Office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster in Liber 675 of Deeds, Page 242.

Being the same premises as conveyed by Bastian Schalwyck and Christine Schalwyck, his wife, to Edith Van Aken, in a deed dated April 30, 1964 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerks Office in Liber 1151 of Deeds at page 208.

PARCEL 3

AND ALSO, ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, lying and being in the Town of Marbletown, Ulster County, New York, more particularly bounded and described as follows: BEGINNING at a point in the center of Chestnut Hill Road said point being the Northwesterly corner of lands of James and Jean Volker and running: (1) thence along the center line of Chestnut Hill Road the following courses and distances: North 11° 48' 10" East 124.86 feet to a point; (2) thence North 15° 35' East 260.58 feet to a point; (3) thence North 19° 47' East 147.72 feet to a point; (4) thence North 33° 51' East 98.73 feet to a point; (5) thence North 35° 16' 50" East 90.89 feet to a point; (6) thence partly along a stone wall, South 36° 46' East 181.67 feet to a point in the stone wall; (7) thence still along a stone wall South 45° 54' 20" East 138.21 feet to a point; (8) thence still along the same South 40° 06' 40" East 49.79 feet to a point; (9) thence North 47° 59' 40" East 653.29 feet to a found pile of stones; (10) thence South 50° 46' 50" East 467.53 feet to a point; (11) thence South 38° 45' 20" West and passing over an iron pipe 1168.20 feet to an interestcion of stone walls; (12) thence along a stone wall and lands of Lee Herrington North 39° 43' 20" West 153.59 feet to an intersection of stone walls; (13) thence partly along a stone wall and lands of Lee Herrington North 37° 10' 10" West 454.88 feet to a stone wall corner; (14) thence still along lands of Herrington and a stone wall South 31° 40' 50" West 162.47 feet to an intersection of stone walls on the Northerly line of lands of James and Jean Volker; (15) thence still along a wall and lands of Volker and passing over a found iron pipe North 75° 43' 50" West 156.00 feet to the place of beginning.

This is a correction deed and is given for the sole purpose of correcting the description in a deed dated April 30, 1964 by the same parties and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 1151 at page 208.

Being the same premises as described in a correction deed dated September 8, 1969 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on October 10, 1969 in Liber 1234 at page 575.

EMPLOYMENT

ATTENTION JOB APPLICANTS
The Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than the legal minimum wage or fail to pay at least time and one-half for overtime hours. The minimum wage for employment covered by the FISA prior to the 1966 Amendments is $1.85 an hour with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. Jobs covered as a result of the 1966 Amendments require $1.80 an hour minimum with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. For specific information contact the Wage and Hour Office of the U. S. Department of Labor, 331 Gerard Ave., Bronx N. Y. 10452, WYandotte 2-1235.

IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Dear Abby

Mom Didn't Know Best

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: You be the judge: Recently a young couple got married. They received many beautiful wedding gifts, among them were two identical electric blankets. The mother of the groom offered to buy one of the electric blankets from the newlyweds and they agreed to sell it to her. The deal was made, the blanket was delivered and the money was collected.

Well, when the bride's mother heard about it she called the kids and told them they should get that blanket back, ask the person who had given it to them in the first place if it could be exchanged for something else, and blah, blah, blah. She made a whole big federal case out of it and caused a lot of hard feelings.

If you were the bride, what would you have done about this mess?

INNOCENT BYSTANDER

DEAR INN: I'd have thanked my mother for her suggestion, told her that the deal had been made, to the satisfaction of all parties concerned, and not to sweat the blanket.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am extremely fond of a young woman and am considering marriage, but something bothers me. Having a meal—just the two of us—in the privacy of her apartment is something of an ordeal because she is terribly strict about table manners. Elbows off the table, knife and fork must be properly placed on the plate when not in use. Hands must be below the table when not eating. No resting the arms or hands on the table while eating, etc., etc.

I would like to dine in a relaxed, comfortable manner without worrying about the rules of etiquette constantly. Be assured, I do not eat like a hog, and my relaxed manner wouldn't offend even the fussiest lady. But what would marriage with such a woman be like?

EMERALD ISLE

DEAR EMERALD: Like being nine years old again, and being married to your mother.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: After my husband showers, he puts on his shorts, then he opens the blinds and turn on the lights and proceeds to shave in full view of our window and the neighbor's window. I have tried to tell him not to do this. I have pointed out that if he had a daughter next door, he would not want her watching a man shave in his underwear, but he thinks I am all wrong.

I am beginning to wonder which one of us is nuts. He's had two heart attacks and his personality has changed since then. He gets very angry when I criticize him and he blows his stack. Now I have decided to let him do as he pleases and let the people next door talk if they want to, but I'd like your opinion anyway.

ANXIOUS

DEAR ANXIOUS: You are wise to skip it. Better to have a husband shaving in his underwear in full view of the neighbors than no husband at all.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What I know about snakes did not come from books. I have lived in snake country all my life and anyone who says poisonous snakes have no odor has a lot to learn about snakes. The rattlesnake, water moccasin and cotton mouth—all poisonous—give off a distinctive odor. It smells something like cucumbers.

Thank God for that odor because every time I have detected it and looked for a snake, I have found one nearby.

OKLAHOMAN

DEAR OKLAHOMAN: Others have written in to confirm your testimony. I also telephoned an expert who is all wrapped up in snakes, and he says that most poisonous snakes lose that distinctive odor after they have been in captivity a short while.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Judgments are apt to be poor now. Much confusion exists about practical affairs but people are trying to be cooperative and to understand what is desired in any relationship. A time for discussions but not for making any important decisions. Let others know you like them. Value their opinion.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ar. associate can bring success today so forget financial schemers who are after your assets. Cooperate with associates. Put aside any errant temptation that you have have. Use tact with everyone.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take the time to make surroundings more charming and efficient. Come to a better understanding with those around you. Try not to lose your temper with mate, associate. Cut down on expenses.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make it your business to cheer others who are feeling quite depressed. Avoid spoil-sport fellow worker who is apt to cause trouble. Get much done on your own. Be wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Improving the situation at home is much a matter of your being diplomatic today. Instead of spending money for frivolity, see what you can do to make home more charming. Buy whatever is needed.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Using excessive energy for vital correspondence is wise today instead of fussing and fuming about some problem. Think it over quietly tonight. Then solve it properly tomorrow.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 ot Sept. 22) Get into the practical matters of your life and avoid arguing with others who are important in your life. Cut down on expenses and do something to improve your budget. Take it easy tonight. Do some reading.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have excellent judgment now, but don't underestimate one who is on the warpath or you find trouble. Be careful with finances. Try not to impose on a fellow-worker or do anything to annoy him or her.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show conservatism in whatever you do or say or you get into real trouble with others. Know in which direction you are headed. Do something to entertain close ties and be happier yourself as well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't limit others when they are trying to give you good ideas and suggestions to better your position in life. You can overcome an obstacle very easily now, if you listen. Avoid anything of a dangerous nature.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Start action on financial matters that bigwigs approve of and make big headway now. Study new idea well before you put it in motion. Care in travel is of utmost importance, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have new ideas that are intriguing so study them instead of bothering higher-ups. Corresponding with out-of-towners brings good results. Get their advice on problems you may have.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact those who have the data you need so that you can later handle financial and personal problems well. An idea you have needs approval of an expert. Contact this person early in the day.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those young people who will want the best at all times. You would be wise to teach to think of the desires and rights of other persons or there could be trouble encountered throughout the lifetime. Anything of an artistic nature is fine here. Make sure to give spiritual and ethical training early. Do not neglect music and sports, either.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

HANDICAP: (Q.) The boy I like is not very good looking. He also talks big. When he goes on a trip with his parents he comes back talking about "the chain of broken hearts" he left behind. I don't think he really breaks any hearts.

But I like him.

Two things, however, keep us from being better friends. He goes to a private school and isn't home much of the time. And I work as a baby-sitter and most of the time have to say no when he asks me for a date.

I'm afraid he'll get the idea I don't like him and will lose interest in me. But what can I do?—Working Girl in Connecticut.

(A.) When he wants to go out it's one of your baby-sitting nights tell him you have to work tonight but you could go tomorrow or next week and you would like to.

You are fortunate to be able to see the imperfections in a boy and still like him. That shows you are well-balanced and straight-thinking.

CALLS STOP: (Q.) I met this boy at a football game. I sat with him and it was so much fun.

He started calling me every day. My mother answered the phone once, and after we were through talking she started asking me questions.

She and my father talked and then told me I was too young for him. He is 15 and I am 13.

When he called next day I told him what they said. That was two days ago and he hasn't called since.

Do you think I'm too young for him? I look at least 15 years old!—Just 13 in Birmingham, Ala.

(A.) You are not too young to like boys, but you are too young to date. This boy probably has dating in mind and is probably looking for a girl who can go out with him.

Be patient. You'll soon be old enough.

Quick Quiz

Q—What is the oldest grist mill in operation in the United States?

A—Linchester Mill near Preston, Md. It was established about 1660, has never been out of operation and functions as a business today.

* * *

Q—What is Maunday Thursday?

A—This is another name for Holy Thursday.

* * *

Q—Do shipworms' burrows ever meet?

A—No. The animal seems to be aware of the nearness of another burrow and turns aside to avoid it.

* * *

Q—By what name are the inhabitants of the Isle of Man properly designated?

A—The people are Celtic and are called Manx or Manxmen.

WHY WE SAY

JUDGE: A chancellor is usually a high government authority. Originally he was also a judge who sat in a latticework, cross-barred seat. The latticework was called "cancelli" in Latin which actually meant "little crabs," because this is what it resembled.

George Plimpton in TV Special

NEW YORK (AP) — George Plimpton is a professional surrogate, the stand-in for every man who dreams of pitching in the major leagues, of tackling Fran Tarkenton, of out-driving Jack Nicklaus. He really does those things—and then tells what it's really like.

Such activity has made Plimpton, 43, a best-selling author and, next Wednesday, will make him an instant television star when his ABC series of specials is launched.

Plimpton's first adventure will show him playing a heavy in the latest John Wayne movie—training for the role, practicing gunslinging and a rolling western walk and, of course, biting the dust. He also has boxed with Archie Moore, played bridge with Oswald Jacoby and played tennis with Pancho Gonzales. He goes in, and expects to come out each time a loser.

"Well," Plimpton hedgingly said, "I did strike out two batters when I pitched with the Yankees."

His second special, in March, presents him working his way around a circus where he tries his luck on the trapeze.

In preparing for his trapeze adventure, Plimpton was instructed never to look down—and to land in the net on his back.

"I climbed up and up on a skinny little ladder and— unavoidably—I looked down, way, way down."

Once on that tiny platform, Plimpton and his instructors just stayed there for over an hour."

"We talked about everything," he recalled. "About taxes, about the stock market, about traffic. But I finally went off. It would have taken more guts to ask to climb down."

The national educational network had something of a drama scoop Thursday night with the performance of a new Tennessee Williams one-act play, "I Can't Imagine Tomorrow." It was coupled with an old Williams playlet, "Talk To Me Like the Rain and Let Me Listen."

Both short dramas, beautifully and sensitively performed were heart-rending vignettes of the lost: A ravaged couple who have completely lost contact with each other; a pain-wracked woman and a disturbed man coming together in another.

Alan Mixon and Lois Smith were the strange couple in the first drama, a man escaping into drunkenness and his wife into fantasy.

In the new play, Kim Stanley played a mortally ill woman deliberately attempting to end the dependence of a weak, mentally ill young man. In both cases Williams' works were extremely effective.

Bridge

Romeo Scores Big With Old Man

By Oswald and James Jacoby

In our JACOBY MODERN version of Shakespeare, we find that Romeo and Juliet had met at a bridge club. Juliet had persuaded her parents to play in a Swiss team game with them. Her father had argued that no Montague could play bridge but Juliet's tears had prevailed and good fortune had attended the new team.

As you know, in a Swiss team you play a series of short matches at IMP scoring. The Capulets, plus one Montague, needed one more win to finish first. They finished the match and started to compare scores. Coming to the last board, they trailed by eight IMPs. Old man Capulet remarked, "We're plus 100 but it won't do us any good. The best you can get is plus 140 with your cards and that will just give us six IMPs."

Juliet smiled demurely and said, "Plus 620. Romeo bid and made four hearts."

"Wonderful," said the old man. "Did West lead his singleton diamond against you? That's what I led."

"As a matter of fact, he did," replied Romeo. "What's more, Juliet looked surprised at my first two plays. I went up with dummy's king of diamonds and discarded my ace of diamonds on her ace of clubs."

"A play worthy of a Capulet," was the old man's response. "Since Juliet wants to marry you, you have my blessing, provided, of course, that you will play with us in the National Mixed team championships this summer."

Romeo's ace discard prevented East from giving his partner a diamond ruff.

Congress Moving New Cambodian Restrictions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation designed to restrict President Nixon's hand in Cambodia—a proposal which deadlocked the Senate for two months last spring—is now moving through Congress without a whisper of opposition.

An amendment to bar the introduction of U.S. ground combat troops into Cambodia was quietly tacked on to a $66.4 billion defense money bill before it emerged from the Senate Appropriations Committee Thursday. There was no effort by administration stalwarts on the panel to defeat it and most observers believed it would be enacted without a fight.

The measure is similar in content to an amendment, sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, that passed the Senate in July 58 to 37 but has been stalled in a Senate-House conference ever since because of White House opposition. The Cooper-Church amendment barred the President from "retaining" ground combat troops in Cambodia. The new amendment added to the defense appropriations bill declares:

"In line with the expressed intention of the President of the United States, none of the funds appropriated by this act shall be used to finance the introduction of American ground combat troops in Laos, Thailand or Cambodia." The restriction on Laos and Thailand already was in the bill passed earlier in the year by the House and also was added to last year's defense money bill.

The White House comment about the new restriction on Cambodia was from press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who said "the President has clearly stated his intentions regarding Cambodia." White House sources said Nixon already has declared publicly he does not intend to return troops into Cambodia to save Cambodia.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., a leading administration ally in the Senate, and Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the committee, contended Nixon would still have the power—as commander in chief—to send troops into Cambodia to save American lives.

But backers of the Cooper-Church Amendment said this was the very argument they made all summer — that they could not restrict presidential powers, but had the right to assert congressional powers. They contended the effect would be the same: to inhibit the President from any future venture in Cambodia by the use of the congressional control over money.

Repulse Attacks on Armed Positions

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops attacked allied positions on three fronts along the South Vietnamese border Thursday night but artillery and air strikes broke up the assaults.

The Cambodian command said a 200-man North Vietnamese and Viet Cong force attacked Cambodian positions at Irivong, 69 miles southeast of the capital, and a lesser Communist unit attacked Cambodian troops at Kompong Trach, 70 miles to the southeast. No casualty reports were available.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said government rangers killed 12 Viet Cong in heavy fighting near Krek, 75 miles east of Phnom Penh and eight miles from the South Vietnamese border. Two South Vietnamese were killed and four wounded.

The U.S. command said an Army UH1 Huey helicopter was shot down Thursday 245 miles northeast of Saigon but the crew escaped injury.

American spokesmen said Viet Cong and North Vietnamese gunners carried out 10 shelling attacks overnight in South Vietnam. None was against a U.S. outpost.

One of the bombardments killed a Vietnamese child and wounded three other civilians at Phu Thien district town, 220 miles northeast of Saigon, Thursday night.

Lt. Col. Am Rong, the official Cambodian military spokesman, said the main area of Communist pressure was between embattled Highways 6 and 7, which fan in spokelike fashion from Phnom Penh to the north and the northeast.

The area takes in 30 square miles about 20 miles north of the capital. Am Rong said the North Vietnamese have five regiments—14,500 men—in the area, with a sixth regiment of 2,900 troops nearby.

Silence From Communist China Over Pontiff's Hong Kong Speech

HONG KONG (UPI) — Pope Paul VI, carefully steering clear of politics, expressed his love today for all Chinese—including those behind the Bamboo Curtain. Communist China kept a stony silence.

The Pope, homeward bound on his voyage to Asia and the Pacific, stopped over in Hong Kong for about three hours to celebrate Mass in the Sports Stadium. He left for Colombo, Ceylon, before returning to Rome to end the 29,000-mile trip—by far the longest of his nine journeys outside Italy.

The pontiff's speech was approved in advance by nervous Hong Kong authorities, who had refused visas to Nationalist Chinese Roman Catholic officials so there could be no political interpretation of Pope Paul's visit. Hong Kong, a British crown colony, sits on the edge of Communist China.

Pope Paul did not mention Communist China specifically, but referred simply to China and the Chinese—apparently including all Chinese people both inside and outside the Bamboo Curtain.

"Christ is...a loving redeemer for China, too," he said. "While we are saying these simple and sublime words, we have around us—we almost feel it—all the Chinese people wherever they may be."

The Chinese Communist press, radio and other media has ignored the Pope's visit to Asia. While Hong Kong's non-Communist press has been enthusiastic about the trip, the colony's Communist press has followed the Red Chinese lead and remained silent about the visit.

At one time there were three million Roman Catholics in China. Many fled when the Communists took over. It is not known how many, if any, remain in mainland China.

The Catholic clergy in China once numbered about 12,000 including 5,500 foreign missionaries. None remain.
